A GREAT BATTLE YESTERDAY.

GEN. THOMAS DEFEATS HOOD.

The Rebels Driven from Their Intrenchments.

Their Left Wing Pushed Back Five Miles.

THEIR CENTRE DRIVEN THREE MILES.

Seventeen Guns and Fifteen Hundred Prisoners Captured.

The Whole Day's Action Splendidly Successful.

THE BATTLE NOT YET OVER.

Official Dispatch from the War Department.

[OFFICIAL.]

WAR DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON,
Thursday, Dec. 15—11:30 P. M.

To Major-Gen. Dix:

The department has just received unofficial dispatches from Nashville, announcing that Gen. THOMAS, with the forces under his command, attacked HOOD's army in front of Nashville at nine o'clock this morning, and although the battle is not yet decided, the whole action to-day is described as splendidly successful.

Our line advanced on the right five miles. The enemy were driven from the river, from their intrenchments, from the range of hills on which their left rested, and forced back upon his right and centre, and the centre was pushed back from one to three miles, with the loss of seventeen guns and about fifteen hundred prisoners, and his whole line of earthworks, except a mile of his extreme right, where no serious attempt was made to dislodge him.

Our casualties are reported to be light.

HOOD's whole army, except the cavalry and a small force near Murfreesboro, were engaged.

EDWIN M. STANTON,
Secretary of War.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT.

A New and Formidable Expedition.

Its Departure from Fortress Monroe on Tuesday.

WHERE IS IT GOING!

From Our Special Correspondent.

OFF CAPE HENRY, Tuesday, Dec. 13, 1864.

A large naval fleet, accompanied with land forces in transports, left Hampton Roads this morning, steering in a southerly direction.

The major portion of the army transports left during the night.

At this writing the flagship Malvern and several of the larger vessels of the fleet, are in the Roads, but as the sailing orders have been signaled, they will probably get under way in a short time.

The iron-clads attached to the fleet were the first to move. The single-turreted monitors go out in tow of steamers. The New Ironsides and the double-turreted monitor, Monadnock, propel themselves.

Thus far we have been favored with fine weather—a light wind blowing from off shore—although indications seem to point to a northeaster, before we arrive at our journey's end.

Our place of destination will be made known to the public at the proper time. Suffice it to remark, that ample preparations have been provided to warrant a vigorous and formidable attack upon the enemy's works.

In all probability a few days hence will give me an opportunity of sending you full and interesting details of the expedition.

FROM FORTRESS MONROE.

Arrival of the Steamer United States with Paroled Prisoners—Reports About Sherman.

FORTRESS MONROE, Wednesday, Dec. 14.

The steamer United States arrived this morning from Port Royal, with a large number of returned prisoners, estimated at between seven and eight hundred. The exchange of prisoners, under Col. MULFORD, was progressing favorably. Nothing definite in relation to Gen. SHERMAN's movements could be learned by the prisoners who came on the United States, but the firing of his guns in the direction of the Savannah River was distinctly heard for several days prior to her sailing from Port Royal, and the forces that the rebel Government have been able to assemble, have been placed in the intrenchments surrounding Savannah and Charleston, so that Gen. SHERMAN will meet with very little resistance until he reaches the suburbs of Savannah, where the rebels say they have made great preparations to give him a bloody reception in case he assaults the city.

The blockade-runner Emily Heudry arrived in Hampton Roads this morning, in charge of Ensign JOHN SMALL, Jr., of the United States gunboat Cherokee, having been captured on the 8th inst., in long. 26° 42′ W., lat. 34° 85′ N., while on the way to Bermuda, with a valuable cargo of 610 bales of cotton, and a large quantity of spirits of turpentine. The Dutch Consul, wife and three daughters were on board at the time of the capture. She is a new boat, and had just made her first trip successfully into Wilmington a short time previously, with a cargo of English rifles and blankets designed for the use of the rebel army, having been shipped by agents in England.

SHERMAN'S ARMY.

Dispatches from Admiral Dahlgren.

How Communications Were Opened with Shernan.

Savannah Probably Fallen.

REPORTS FROM REBEL SOURCES.

Kilpatrick Rumored Mortally Wounded.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The following telegram was received from Fortress Monroe last night:

[Telegram in cipher, received at Washington at 10 P. M., Dec. 14, 1864, from Port Royal Harbor, via Fortress Monroe:]

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:

I have just received a communication from SHERMAN's army. He is a few miles from Savannah, and in fine spirits. I shall bring all my available force into connection with the army.

A dispatch is forwarded with this.

Very respectfully,
(Signed) J. A. DAHLGREN, Rear-Admiral.

A bearer of dispatches from Admiral DAHLGREN arrived in this city this morning, with the following important dispatch for the Secretary of the Navy:

FLAG-STEAMER PHILADELPHIA,
PORT ROYAL HARBOR, S. C., Dec. 12, 1864.

Hon. Gideon Welles, Secretary of the Navy:

SIR: It is my happiness to apprise the Department that Gen. SHERMAN, with his army, is near Savannah, and I am in communication with him.

In view of his probable arrival, I had stationed several steamers at different points, and had come down from the Tilafinney yesterday, in order to be at hand. I had not to wait many hours.

This morning, about 8 o'clock, the Dandelion arrived with Capt. DUNCAN and two scouts, Sergt. MYRON J. CORMICK and GEORGE W. QUIMBY, bearing the following lines from Gen. HOWARD:

HEADQUARTERS DEPARTMENT OF THE
ARMY OF THE TENNESSEE,
NEAR SAVANNAH CANAL, Ga.

To Commander of the United States Naval Forces in Savannah, Ga.:

SIR: We have met with perfect success thus far. Troops in fine spirits and near by.

Respectfully,
(Signed,) O. O. HOWARD, Major-General.

Capt. DUNCAN states that our forces were in contact with the rebels a few miles outside of Savannah.

He says that SHERMAN's army are not in want of anything.

Perhaps no event could give greater satisfaction to the country than that which I announced, and I beg leave to congratulate the United States Government on its occurrence.

It may, perhaps, be exceeding my province, but I cannot refrain from expressing the hope that the department will commend Capt. DUNCAN and his companions to the Hon. Secretary of War for some marks of approbation, for the success in establishing communications between Gen. SHERMAN and the fleet.

It was an enterprise that required both skill and courage.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant, (Signed,) J. A. DAHLGREN,
Rear-Admiral, commanding S. A. B. Squadron.

That Gen. SHERMAN had captured Savannah before the steamer which brought the above dispatch had fairly got out of the harbor of Port Royal, is probable from the fact that the messenger who reached here this morning says that, when coming out of the harbor and when too late to communicate by signals, the whole fleet began to fire a salute.

Upon looking toward the vessels they were been gaily decorated with flags in honor of some great victory.

The opinion that prevailed on board the steamer was that since she left the wharf news had reached the Admiral of the fall of Savannah.

SECOND DISPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Dec. 15.

There is no positive news of the fall of Savannah. It is merely probable.

A PHILADELPHIA RUMOR.

PHILADELPHIA, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The Evening Telegraph has just received the following special dispatch;

WASHINGTON, Thursday, Dec. 15.

Another scout has arrived from SHERMAN's army with dispatches to the President. He reports Savannah captured on the 10th inst.

NEWS FROM REBEL SOURCES.

Our active correspondent with Col. MULFORD's exchange fleet, in Charleston harbor, furnishes us with full files of Southern papers to the following dates:

Charleston, S. C.	Dec. 10
Columbia, S. C.	Dec. 8
Augusta, Ga.	Dec. 9
Savannah, Ga.	Dec. 7

No railroad or telegraphic communication had been had between Savannah and Charleston between the 7th and 10th.

SHERMAN'S PROGRESS.

From the Charleston Courier, Dec. 10.

SHERMAN's army is reported still moving toward Savannah. We learn that the affair at Station No. 2, on Thursday, was simply some slight skirmishing. The opinion seems to prevail that SHERMAN intends to attack Savannah, but that if he attempts it he will be badly defeated. A report was in circulation yesterday that, on the arrival of his forces at No. 2, he had turned off in the direction of Sister's Ferry, which would indicate an intention to cross into South Carolina. The enemy near Pocotaligo were reported shelling the road Friday. About one hundred prisoners from SHERMAN's army arrived in the city yesterday.

From the Augusta Constitutionalist, Dec. 9.

SHERMAN's columns are very much scattered. At last accounts, HARDEE was skirmishing with the enemy's advance in Effingham County, while WHEELER was hacking and pegging away at the rear guard, no less than forty miles this side. A corps of the enemy is foraging on the west side of the Ogeeche. From this disposition of forces, it will be seen that the hostile corps are sprawling over a large space, and not a little demoralized. We take it, that now is the golden opportunity for HARDEE to strike. If he should dally much longer, Sherman will have ample time to combine his fragmentary divisions, and deal us a solid blow.

The impression prevails that an attempt to cross the Savannah River, at or below Sister's Ferry, will be made. Precautions of a novel and formidable character have been taken to prevent the execution of such a design.

The end is rapidly culminating. By the first of next week Sherman will have terminated his eventful march. Whether successful or not, the future alone can demonstrate.

SHERMAN'S POSITION.

From the Augusta Chronicle & Sentinel, Dec. 9.

It is rumored in the streets, this morning, that SHERMAN's main force is at Number Two and a Half, on the Central Railroad. This is about twenty-five miles from Savannah. If this be correct, both armies are now within about ten miles of each other. Brisk times ahead.

FROM BELOW.

From the Augusta Chronicle & Sentinel, Dec. 9.

A gentleman who has just come up the river about eighty miles, informs us that no Yankees have crossed the river between this city and the point from which he came. He reports that the Federals are burning everything in their way.

No Yankees have been at Demera's Ferry, or the vicinity.

It is stated that the telegraph operator at Station Two and a Half, fell back to Station Number Two.

AN ATTACK BY HARDEE.

From the Charleston Courier, Dec. 9.

A report prevailed in the city, yesterday, that Gen. HARDEE had met and attacked the enemy at Station Number Two and a Half. The portion of SHERMAN's army engaged was reported to be SLOCUM's corps. No results were given.

From the Savannah News, Dec. 7.

We learn that a fight occurred yesterday at the front, in which the enemy were defeated and severely punished. It is said that a strong force of infantry and cavalry attacked the command of Col. FISHER, which is stationed on the outposts, who has not more than a fourth the number of men opposed to him, but most handsomely repulsed the foe, who thought, no doubt, to run over him and his little squad of men.

From the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, Dec. 8.

Our only advices from the progress of the enemy consist of rumors that they are crossing the Savannah River, at Sister's Ferry, in Effingham County, about fifty miles above Savannah.

Our scouts on yesterday brought in several prisoners, captured near the river, some forty miles below this city. One of them was a Captain, and a dashy-looking fellow.

The quid nuncs were busy last night speculating on the appearance of a balloon in the direction of the coast, which passed toward the southwest. Some with keen optics declared that it was as big as a house. It is possible that it was a signal from SHERMAN to the fleet.

WHEN SHERMAN OCCUPIED MILLEN.

From the Augusta Chronicle and Sentinel, Dec 3.

The enemy occupied Millen yesterday evening at 6 o'clock.

The telegraph office was removed to Station No. Seven, nine miles below.

GEN. KILPATRICK.

From the Charleston Mercury, Dec. 9.

Yankee prisoners report that KILPATRICK was shot through the head and mortally wounded in the fight, on Sunday, at Walker's Bridge.

BEAUREGARD.

From the Augusta Constitutionalist, Dec. 9.

General BEAUREGARD arrived in Charleston, Wednesday evening, by the South Carolina Railroad, and immediately pushed on, in a special train, to the scene of hostilities on the Charleston and Savannah Railroad.

REBEL ACCOUNTS OF GEN. FOSTER'S OPERATIONS.

From the Charleston Mercury, Dec. 10.

We are without any further intelligence from the Charleston and Savannah Railroad. The mail and passenger train due last evening from Savannah, did not arrive, and it is believed that the train did not even leave Savannah.

We believe that all was quiet along the road, except that the enemy was, at intervals, shelling our positions near the track.

THE ST. ALBAN'S ROBBERS.

EXCITEMENT IN CANADA.

Prompt Action of the Canadian Authorities.

JUDGE COURSEL'S ACTION REPUDIATED.

The Re-arrest of the Raiders Ordered.

QUEBEC, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The discharge of the St. Alban's raiders surprised the members of the Government, and the ground of the discharge is pronounced ridiculous. The magistrate is likely to be severely dealt with. New warrants have been issued by a Superior Court Judge for the rearrest of the raiders, and constables are in pursuit. An efficient military force is to be sent to the border towns immediately, to prevent further depredations.

THE FEELING IN MONTREAL.

MONTREAL, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The conduct of COURSOL, the magistrate, and LAMOTHE, the Chief of Police, is denounced. LAMOTHE is accused of complicity. An investigation is going on by the Council. It is thought that LAMOTHE will be dismissed.

THE EXCITEMENT IN TORONTO.

TORONTO, Thursday, Dec. 15.

There is a profound sensation in regard to COURSOL's decision in the case of the raiders. The best legal authorities pronounce it contrary to law, and it meets with general condemnation.

LATER AND IMPORTANT.

A Meeting of the Cabinet—The Magistrate's Action to be Repudiated and Denounced—The Queen's Sanction of the Extradition Act.

QUEBEC, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The Cabinet had a long session to-day, and it is understood that the members unanimously denounced the act of Judge COURSOL, discharging the St. Alban's raiders. The pretence was that the Canadian Extradition Act of 1861 was not in force, because it had not been assented to by the Queen in council. If the Judge had inquired of the Government, he would have found that Her Majesty had specially assented to that act. He made an assertion against the validity of the act of the Canadian Legislature, without proof. It turns out that his assumption was false.

The Attorney-General, it is understood, advised the issue of new warrants on the same night by the Judge of the Superior Court of Montreal, for the rearrest of the raiders, some of whom have gone East, to Halifax, and some West. Officers are on their tracks, and they cannot escape if they remain in Canada.

The Canadian Government has no legal right to act directly, as the courts have independent jurisdiction. If the judges refuse to do their duty, or act corruptly, they may be suspended, or in some cases dismissed. It is probable Mr. COURSOL will be dismissed.

Parliament, which usually meets in February, will be summoned to assemble in the middle of January, when laws will be passed to meet the exigency of the great change of public feeling toward the Confederates since they have shown an intention of embroiling the two countries in war.

FROM MONTREAL.

The Attorney-General Decides the Magistrate's Action Illegal—The Re-arrest of the Raiders Ordered.

MONTREAL, Thursday, Dec. 15.

The Attorney-General decides that the magistrate's decision was wrong in the case of the St. Alban's raiders, and orders their re-arrest and the money to be given up.

A Meeting in Order to Indorse Gen. Dix's Order.

ALBANY, Thursday, Dec. 15.

A public meeting has been called, to be held in Troy, to-morrow, Friday evening, for the purpose of indorsing the late order of Major-Gen. DIX in reference to rebel raids from Canada, and to suggest or adopt such other measures as will insure the protection of our frontier.

FLAG-OF-TRUCE BOAT NEW-YORK,
OFF FORT SUMTER, CHARLESTON, S. C.,
Monday, Dec. 12, 1864.

The work of Col. MULFORD's mission in these waters, for the reception of our sick and wounded prisoners, approaches its end; and not before everybody connected with it has become heartily tired of the tardiness which the rebel authorities have shown in delivering the men. It was reasonably hoped by us that not more than two weeks would pass after the arrival of our fleet in the Savannah River, ere the vessels would return with the entire complement of the released prisoners, but we are now in the fifth week, and up to last night the aggregate number delivered was only nine thousand. To-day and to-morrow we shall, probably, obtain fifteen hundred more, and the business will be done. The detention is attributed by the rebels solely to the fact that the movement of Gen. SHERMAN through Georgia compels the use of their railroad transportation for military purposes, and there is no reason to doubt the truth of the assertion. With them, the expedition for the exchange of prisoners is now a secondary matter altogether, and, indeed, they were quite willing to stop the delivery ten days ago, when they notified Col. MULFORD that the Savannah River was no longer convenient on their part for the further carrying on of the work. At that time we had obtained 5,500 of our men; and feeling emphatically unwilling to leave his humane operations unfinished, to say nothing of the fruitless expense involved in bringing a half dozen or more large steamships here and sending them back empty to the North, Col. MULFORD proposed to the rebel authorities to receive the remainder of the prisoners at Charleston. This proposition was contingently accepted, and a few days of necessary delay followed, before the flag of truce could be transferred and established off Fort Sumter. Gen. FOSTER had to be consulted, and his consent obtained to a suspension of the seige operations in front of the "cradle of treason," and Admiral DAHLGREN had to be seen to get his sanction to a cessation of hostilities on the part of his fleet. These preliminaries having been settled, a compact was agreed upon between the authorities on both sides, including in its stipulations that, during the continuance of the truce, no military work, such as building and repairing fortifications, should be done by either party, and that quiet should reign supreme, except so far as blockade-running might be concerned. Of course, as no one here has the power to raise the blockade of the port of Charleston for a single moment, all vessels attempting to enter or come out of the harbor are subjected to the same risks as before the flag of truce was established.

CHARLESTON AND ITS HARBOR.

With these rules governing our action on Tuesday last, the vessels of Col. MULFORD's fleet crossed Charleston bar and anchored within easy musket shot of the ruins of Fort Sumter—ruins, by the way, which are said to be stronger in their present state, as a defensive work, than the fort was before its shape was marred by the heavy artillery of the Morris Island batteries. From the point where we are at anchor we get an excellent view of the city, which is not so distant that those of us who have visited the place before the war, are unable to name streets and localities, aided in our conclusions by the spires of St. Michael's and St. Philip's, and the still standing tower of the burnt Catholic Cathedral. The harbor is lined with batteries, which are as plainly visible to the garrison of our forts on Morris Island as they are to us, and, therefore, I don't violate the sanctity of the flag of truce by making the fact public. Sullivan's Island beach, on our right, is strewn with the wrecks of four blockade-runners, that mutely testify to the vigilance of our navy; and one of them—a large white steamer—seems to have but recently gone on shore, as her decks are scarcely submerged. On two or three occasions I have seen a boat-load of enterprising rebels stealthily go to this stranded Anglo-Rebel vessel, and remain for a few hours, doubtless profitably employed in fishing out the cargo—an occupation which the monitor on picket duty, a mile or more away, has as yet shown no signs of interrupting.

TERRIBLE CONDITION OF THE PRISONERS.

Thus far since we have been off Charleston Bar the rebels have brought us nearly four thousand men, the large majority of whom are from the prison-pen at Florence, the remainder being less than a couple of hundred officers from Columbia. The condition of these men is not a shade better than those received from Andersonville and Millen. The same gaunt, famished features, the same wretched rags and indescribable misery mark the poor creatures who come to us from "chivalrous" South Carolina as from the other prisons in Dixie where there is less claim to the possession of generosity and magnanimity. Several of these victims of Southern barbarities have died in transit from the rebel boats to our own, and the condition of others is so pitiable that hundreds will scarcely reach their homes to die among their friends. Many of these half-starved and naked wrecks of humanity cry for food like babies as they step on board our vessels, and it is as impossible to exaggerate the facts as it certainly is impossible to convey a truthful idea of the deplorable state to which cruelty has reduced them. I wish the people of the North could look just once upon an average thousand of these squalid, emaciated soldiers of the Republic, as they pass from the rebel boats to our receiving-vessel, or that a procession of the wretched crew might march up Broadway by day light, then I am sure that the sympathies of the nation would be so aroused by their misfortunes that there would be no cessation of the prayers and demands that would follow until the release of their forty-thousand comrades from their hideous captivity had been effected.

AN APPEAL FOR THE RELEASE OF THE CAPTIVES.

The sufferings of Union prisoners in the terrestrial hells of the South have reached a point which makes it the duty of the relatives of the sufferers and of all humane persons in the North, to unite in calling upon the Government to adopt toward our unhappy compatriots a policy whereby the demands of humanity may be satisfied without detriment to the military interests of the country. In order to cripple the Southern armies, is it necessary, or are parents and relatives willing that rebel prisoners should be pampered in Northern prisons, while dear sons and relatives are abandoned to starvation and death in Southern prisons? This question has not been duly considered by the people, and it can be satisfactorily solved in the interest of humanity and good government without the sacrifice of an iota of principle. It is a question that seems not to have been duly weighed by the War Department, else it would scarcely allow fifty thousand of its brave defenders to rot and die in the loathsome prisons at the South, without an effort to release them. Longer delay in this matter cannot be justified on the ground of military expediency, or for any other conceivable reason. The rebel authorities, I am informed, have officially announced their willingness to exchange prisoners, man for man. Having a large excess of Southern soldiers in its hands, the United States Government, by accepting the proposition, could procure the exchange of every white Union soldier now in captivity, and yet be enabled to retain of the rebel prisoners an amply sufficient number to be held as hostages for the few negro soldiers now in the Southern prisons. If this be true, as I am persuaded that it is, why should there be any longer hesitation on the part of the War Department to accept the terms? There would be no surrender of principle involved. The undoubted right of the negro soldier to protection, equally with the white soldier, would not be vitiated in any degree. Then the cartel of 1862 might be again carried out on both sides, and, as men were captured, they would be paroled as speedily as possible, while the number of rebel hostages for our colored soldiers could be increased as often as necessary, or until the rebel authorities choose, as doubtless they soon would, to recede from their unjust position as regards the refusal to exchange captured negro troops. Common justice and common humanity alike demand this course on the part of a powerful and enlightened Government. If there be any possible way, without a sacrifice of dignity and principle, of opening the prison doors to release the dying patriots in the hands of the barbarians of the South, in the name of a merciful God, the miserable captives implore that they may be released. Let mercy, too, be swift on her errand, or the rigors of Winter will put thousands beyond the reach of human aid.

THE PRISON-PEN AT COLUMBIA.

I turn now to the proof of rebel barbarity as furnished by the officers who have just been released from Columbia, and I am particularly indebted for my facts to Col. JOHN FRASER, of the One Hundred and Fortieth Pennsylvania Regiment, formerly the accomplished Professor of Mathematics and Astronomy in Jefferson College, Pennsylvania, who was among the paroled prisoners. To the number of fourteen hundred the Union officers were removed from Charleston on the 5th of October, and on the 7th of the same month were taken to the neighborhood of Columbia, S.C., where they have ever since been confined in camp "Sorghum," so called from the extraordinary large proportion which sorghum molasses bears to the rest of the rations issued to them. The camp is situated on a hill about two miles to the west of Columbia, and lies upon a gentle slope, at the foot of which runs a perennial but nameless rivulet of good water. The portion of the camp occupied as quarters covers about four acres, and at the time the prisoners were placed in it, had a sparse growth of dwarfish pines. The limits of the camp are marked off only by portions of small pine branches, about eighteen inches long, and placed at intervals of fifty or sixty feet apart. THAT LINE OF PINE STICKS FORMS THE "DEAD LINE." Any officer who intentionally or thoughtlessly passes that terrible line is liable to be shot. The camp is guarded by a battalion of reserves and a pack of blood-hounds. The human guards are posted at short intervals from one another, along a line from ten to twenty paces outside of the "dead-line," and are encouraged to strictness in the discharge of their duty by the assurance of a furlough of thirty days to every sentinel who shoots a "Yankee" who may be found, or who may be supposed to be found, outside of the "dead-line" without permission from the prison authorities. Several guards have already enjoyed their furlough for having shot "Yankee" officers. At the time (Dec. 9) when the present paroled officers left Camp Sorghum, it was a matter of speculation among the prisoners whether the human guard who shot, or rather murdered, Lieut. G. F. TURBAYNE, Sixty-sixth Regiment New-York Volunteers, on the morning of Dec. 4, would be commissioned or furloughed. Two officers who were present at the time are prepared to give their affidavits that Lieut. GEORGE F. TURBAYNE was shot four or five feet within the dead-line. Great indignation was manifested by the officers on account of what they justly considered a cold-blooded murder, but the assertion of the guard, who stated that he believed Lieut. TURBAYNE was shot outside of the "dead-line," was accepted by the prison authorities in preference to the statement of officers who declared upon their honor that he was shot four or five feet within the dead-lines. And Lieut. TURBAYNE's was not the only case of murder. On the night of October 21, about 9 o'clock, Lieut YOUNG, of the Fourth Pennsylvania Cavalry, was seated at a camp fire, conversing with his messmates of friends at home, when a musket was discharged on the guard-line, and the ball entered Lieut. YOUNG's right side, passing through his body, and causing death almost instantly. The explanation vouchsafed by the prison authorities, was that the affair was accidental, and no other satisfaction could be obtained. Under such circumstances there was no security felt among the officers for their lives, even though they complied strictly with the harshest of the rules imposed upon them by their jailors. These are but two instances of very many of like character that have occurred within the past few months. The canine guards were chiefly used for tracking officers who attempted to effect their escape. On the 7th of December, two of these bloodhounds accidently got loose and strayed into camp. It is needless to say they did not get out again alive.

In Northern prisons there always has been, and in Southern prisons there used to be, an inclosure or stockade which served at once to confine and protect the prisoners. But in Camp Sorghum there is not the humanity of a stockade or fence to caution and protect the captives against the danger of passing, however thoughtlessly, the line of death.

DESTITUTION OF THE PRISONERS.

As to the internal arrangements of the camp, the prison authorities have given themselves no concern about it. They have not provided shelter, even of the poorest kind, for the accommodation of the officers. When first brought to Camp Sorghum, the prisoners naturally gathered with a rush, and squatted around the dwarfish pines, already alluded to, to get protection from the sun by day and from the dews by night. It is these scattering pines, together with the rights of squatter sovereignty, which have determined the very irregular distribution of the rude shelters which have slowly enough made their appearance, and which now have rendered the proper policing of the camp an impossibility. Not a broom or wheelbarrow has been provided by the prison authorities, for policing quarters. The ground has become honey-combed with holes out of which clay has been dug to roof or daub shelters, and it is now very difficult by day and very perilous by night to walk over the camp. From the want of policing implements these holes have become the receptacles for filth. If these officers should be confined in this camp during the warm season, the Andersonville tragedy, in all its horrors, will inevitably be reënacted. It is difficult to enable northern citizens to realize the pressure of prison life as actually felt by the sufferers. The following statement of facts may serve to throw some light on the condition of prisoners at Camp Sorghum:

SORGHUM, RICE AND MEAL.

Not an ounce of meat was issued from Sept 27 up to the time (Dec. 9.) when the present paroled prisoners left camp. The usual daily allowance of rations consists of one pint of unsified corn meal, one half pint of sorghum molasses, one-tenth of a pint of rice, one-fourth of a table spoonful of salt, and sometimes about one-fifth of a pint of shorts, or of very bad flour. To cook these materials the prisoners are not supplied with one-tenth part of the utensils necessary. Not a single culinary utensil was issued from Oct. 7 to Dec. 9. The only utensils which the prisoners possessed were a few which, with great trouble, they had carried with them from other prisons, together with a few very rude ones, which they had manufactured out of stove-plates which fell into their hands at Charleston. The owner of a piece of flat iron for baking cakes, found it necessary to keep a written list of the messes which were, in turn, to be accommodated with the use of it. Kind-hearted matrons, experienced in the culinary art, are alone prepared to appreciate the trials undergone, by experienced officers who had to work over green pine fires which smoked profusely, and very reluctantly yielded a feeble heat, with unsuitable utensils, for the use of which they had to wait patiently for hours. Some messes could cook only one meal a day on account of the scarcity of cooking utensils.

Who but a prisoner can realize the terrible monotony of diet. Unsifted corn meal, sorghum molasses and rice! Rice, sorghum molasses and corn meal! Monsieur SOYER would be horrified at the elaborate blunders perpetrated in the desperate attempts to satisfy appetite and sustain life, by exhausting all the possible combinations of these ingredients.

MORE INHUMANITY.

For the first ten days of their imprisonment in Camp Sorghum, the prisoners were not allowed free access to a sink. From sunrise to sunset (for nature was not supposed by the Confederate authorities to work in "Yankees" by night) they were permitted to go under guard outside of the "dead-line," at a particular point, to relieve themselves, in squads of five at first, afterward of twelve at a time. A very large number suffered from diarrhœa. This barbarous treatment was attended with results which, in about ten days, shocked even Confederate inhumanity, and induced the prison authorities to provide sinks to which the prisoners now have access at all hours.

The greatest suffering was caused by the want of shelters. The Confederate authorities had provided none, and the prisoners were thereupon obliged to supply themselves. With, at first, eight very unserviceable axes, which the rebels had subsequently increased to twenty, among fourteen hundred officers, the work of erecting shelters progressed very slowly. The necessary wood could be procured only from the neighboring forest, distant from a fourth to one-half a mile. In these woods, with blunt axes and under guard, the officers were obliged to cut very hurriedly the wood necessary for fuel and cabins, and to carry the material on their backs into camp. While the slow process of erecting shelters was going on, very many officers, weak from long confinement, and afflicted severely from diarrhœa and chills and fever, with ragged clothes, worn-out shoes and blanketless, suffered hardships beyond their power of endurance, exposed, as they were, to drenching rains and severe frosts, and occasionally to scorching heat. The hospital accommodations are shockingly defective. All the patients are kept in beds on the ground, without any stoves, and even this poor treatment was not given to all the sick.

Add to these physical grievances a few others which I shall mention, and you will barely have an approximate idea of prison life at Camp Sorghum. There is a uniform delay in the distribution of letters, breathing love and comfort, from home. Many officers, who wrote frequently during the past half year, have not during that time received a single letter from friends who were never known to neglect them before. In aggravation of these hardships we must not forget that the rebels detain all moneys sent to the prisoners, while rebel capitalists are permitted to loan money at the usurious rate of five or six Confederate bills for one dollar in Northern gold.

From these horrors, four to five hundred officers have attempted to make their escape, in squads of from two to five, passing the guards by stealth, and more often by bribery. These fugitives are now roaming over South Carolina, Georgia and North Carolina. Some of them, through the invariable hospitality and guidance of the negroes, have already reached our lines in safety, and it is hoped that at least one-half of the number will get through.

I might go on indefinitely with the proof of rebel barbarity toward our officers, but for the present I forbear. My letter has already exceeded the limits I had proposed. I shall at once forward you a list of several thousand names of deceased soldiers at Florence, Savannah, and elsewhere, with additional evidence of the inhumanity of the enemy.

H. J. W.

JAMES KELLY, Postmaster.

THE NEW CHURCH OF THE INCARNATION.—This edifice was opened for Divine service and the celebration of the Lord's Supper, on Sunday last. Notwithstanding the exceedingly inclement weather, a very large congregation occupied the spacious and beautiful sanctuary. There were present in the chancel, besides Rev. Dr. MONTGOMERY, the Rector, Rev. Dr. FORBES, Rev. Mr. PETERS, Rev. Mr. STOCKING and Rev. J. H. HOPKINS, Jr., who all took part in the services. A beautiful hymn, composed for the occasion by Dr. LITTELL, of Philadelphia, was sung by the choir and congregation. Rev. Dr. MONTGOMERY took for his text the 16th verse of eighth chapter of the Second Book of Chronicles, from which he preached an excellent discourse. It is a fact worthy of mention that this is the first and only Protestant Episcopal Church ever built in this city, by its congregation, without asking or receiving assistance from the venerable corporation of Trinity Church. The arrangements of this large and beautiful edifice are very complete. The light is so admitted that not a ray falls into the eyes of the people. At night the church is illuminated by gas-jets around the bells of the columns, and by a superb corona in the chancel. The vestibule, and broad alley, the doors and the chancel, are all admirably fitted for the convenient use of a crowded congregation. The society and Sunday-school rooms are in the chapel building, at the rear of the church itself. There will be a public sale of pews in this church on this (Friday) evening, the 16th inst., at 7½ o'clock.

The City Railroads.

No. 36 Warren-st., Dec. 12, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

Sir: An article appearing in your editorial columns of the 6th inst. did injustice, in at least one respect, to several of our city railroads.

You say: "And the arrangements made by other companies to sell their tickets, with the Government tax added to the price, only at places where nobody can procure them without great trouble and inconvenience," &c.

On the contrary, we have been selling tickets for the city railroads, since the change in fare, at our store, No. 3 Park-row, which is but a few steps from the terminus of each of the principal lines, and have advertised the fact extensively in the Times and other city dailies.

The President and other officers of the Third-avenue road have shown a very commendable anxiety that every facility should be afforded the public in the sale of tickets. The President has also directed the conductors to accept the tickets of other lines for fare, which is certainly a great convenience to passengers on that road.

The Sixth-avenue line has also furnished us with an ample supply of their tickets, and we have made arrangements by which we purchase and keep for sale the tickets of the Seventh-avenue and Broadway roads. Very respectfully, &c.,

P. F. SMITH & FOWLER.

Gas.

New-York, Tuesday, Dec. 13, 1864.

To the Editor of the New-York Times:

I notice an article in your paper from "One of your Subscribers," in which he complains of the intolerable smell proceeding from the gas-houses, and inquires if something cannot be done to put a stop to it.

I am happy to be able to state that a plan is being developed, which will, when generally adopted, entirely abate the nuisance complained of.

The Gold Room ranged to-day between 237½@234½ ℘ cent., closing 234½@235 ℘ cent., about the same as yesterday at 4 o'clock. The intermediate upward movement last night and early to-day was on the Canada trouble, but was not sustained, as the public at large are far from construing Gen. Dix's order as significant of war with Great Britain. On the contrary, this timely preparation is rather calculated to avert than provoke serious international trouble.

There was much steadiness in Government 6 ℘ cent. Gold-bearing Stocks to-day, and a largely increased demand for the 10-40 years 5 ℘ cents, both at the Stock Exchange Board and by original subscription to this Stock through the National Banks, at par and interest from 1st September. A heavy business was also done in Treasury Certificates of Indebtedness on Wall-street, at 97½@⅝ for the new, and 98½@99 for the old dates.

The Railway Shares opened with a fair degree of firmness at the morning Board, but before the dealings were through on the Western list the demand showed some weakness, and at the Second Board prices were scarcely as good as yesterday afternoon. Some seller's options were put out on Fort Wayne, and others offered on New-York Central. The sales of Reading were ex-dividend of 15 ℘ cent. in scrip, equal to 17 ℘ cent. in cash. The Miscellaneous Shares closed dull.

At 4 o'clock the following quotations were made, as compared with Wednesday afternoon. The general market left off tame.

Cheese continues in request, at 15c.@24c. for poor to choice, ℘ ℔. The week's business in Butter and Cheese, Messrs. M. W. Starin & Co. notice, thus:

"The receipts of good to fine State and Pennsylvania dairies of Butter, since our last report, have been quite light, for the season, but is what we estimate as a full proportion of the stock remaining in the dairy districts. The receipts of Western Butter continue very small, and must soon cease for lack of stock. The demand for the English Export Trade was quite active during the early part of the week, but was checked toward the close by the fall in the rates of gold. The demand for California continues active, and is only checked by the advanced pretensions of receivers of fine Firkins. The demand for Home consumption is unusually heavy, particularly for strictly fine goods, and a full supply is not on the market. The market closes firm and buoyant, at an advance over last week's quotations, and also with a light stock offering. Fresh Print Butters are out of market, and Fall made Tubs take their place. Roll Butter is arriving in small quantities and sells promptly at quotations. We quote:

The market for Cheese has been unsteady during the week, and reliable quotations are out of the question. Receipts have been moderate, and the stock on this market is not heavy for the season. The reports of a fall in the English markets, and the anticipation of larger receipts from the country tend to depress and unsettle market rates here. The demand for export is light. But holders of fine dairies are firm in their views. Our quotations are nominal.

NEWS OF THE DAY.

THE REBELLION.

The news from Nashville this morning is of thrilling interest. An official dispatch from the Secretary of War announces that Gen. Thomas attacked Hood at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and an action resulted which lasted all day, and though not concluded, was splendidly successful, the left wing of the enemy having been driven back five miles. and his centre from one to three miles, with a loss to the rebels of seventeen guns and 1,500 prisoners. They were driven from their intrenchments, from the river, and from the crest of hills which they had occupied. The news is cheering, indeed.

The news from Gen. Sherman published yesterday, is fully confirmed this morning by a dispatch from Admiral Dahlgren, whose naval forces are in communication with Gen. Sherman. It was believed at Port Royal on the 12th that Sherman had already captured Savannah, and such a report comes from Washington via Philadelphia, but both are mere surmises. We have files of Charleston and Augusta papers as late as the 10th. forwarded by our correspondent with Col. Mulford's fleet, but they are very bare of information concerning Sherman's movements, and show very plainly that all communication with Savannah was suspended. We may expect important news any hour.

Our able correspondent with Col. Mulford's Exchange Fleet at Charleston harbor, Mr. H. J. Winser, furnishes us with another thrilling account of the release of the martyred captives of the Union. The whole number released up to the 12th inst. was 9,000, and the delivery of the entire ten thousand would be soon complete. Col. Mulford had also effected the release of a large number of officers, a list of whose names are given elsewhere. We have also received from the same correspondent a very long list of deaths of prisoners at various points in the South, which we shall publish as soon as we can find room for it.

An immense coöperating expedition of naval and militaay forces has gone from Fortress Monroe, to strike at some point on the Southern coast. The naval portion is composed of most of the large vessels that have rendezvoused at Hampton Roads during the past two months, and is led by Rear-Admiral D. D. Porter. The fleet left on Monday. On Wednesday the army transports went out. Of this branch of the expedition Maj.-Gen. Godfrey Weitzel has active command. Gen. Butler also has gone with the army, having left Fortress Monroe with his staff on Wednesday, on the steamer Ben. Deford. It will be heard from in a very few days.

The action of Judge Coursol, in discharging the St. Albans raiders is very promptly repudiated by the Canadian authorities. A dispatch from Quebec announces that at a meeting of the Cabinets yesterday, the action of the magistrate was denounced, and it was ascertained that the act under which Judge Coursol pretended that he could not hold the prisoners, because of the lack of the Queen's assent, had expressly received that assent upon its passage. The Attorney-General of the Government, the Hon. Mr. Cartier, decides Judge Coursol's action wrong, and orders the rearrest of the raiders.

CONGRESS.

In the Senate, yesterday, Mr. Sumner offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the President to lay before the Senate any information on the files of the Department of State, in regard to the treaty with Great Britain, relating to the naval force on the lakes. Mr. Lane, of Kansas, offered a resolution instructing the Committee on the Conduct of War to inquire into the truth of certain charges, that large numbers of disloyal persons are in the employment of the Government in the navy-yards, Quartermaster's and Ordnance Departments, etc., of the country, to the exclusion of loyal men, with power to send for persons and papers. After a brief debate the resolution was adopted. Mr. Chandler called up the resolutions offered by him on Wednesday, relating to the Northern Frontier. They were referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. A resolution looking to the reorganization of the militia system, offered by Mr. Brown, of Missouri, was adopted. On motion of Mr. Chandler, the House bill to regulate commerce among the several States, was made the special order for the first Wednesday in January. The bill to transfer a gunboat to Siberia was taken up and passed. Mr. Anthony, of Rhode Island, offered a resolution which was adopted, instructing the Committee on the Conduct of the War to inquire into the facts connected with the assault on Petersburgh, on the 30th of July, 1864. The Senate then adjourned until Monday.

In the House, Mr. Holman, of Indiana, introduced a resolution, directing the Secretary of War to furnish a copy of the order issued December 21, 1863, in regard to troops enlisted on condition that they should be discharged when the regiments were mustered out of service; also the order dated December, 1863, addressed to the Governor of Massachusetts, in regard to troops to fill up old regiments; and also to inform the House whether the principles therein announced have been applied to all soldiers mustered to fill up old regiments. The resolution was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. Mr. Cox, of Ohio, offered a resolution, which was adopted, requesting the Secretary of State to furnish the House all communications on file in his office, with reference to the difficulties on the Northern borders, and which have not been referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The Committee of Ways and Means was instructed to inquire into the expediency of exempting sailing vessels of five hundred tons and upward from the two per cent. tax in the ninety-fourth section of the internal revenue act of 1864. The Senate joint-resolution of thanks to Capt. Winslow and Lieut. Cushing was taken up and passed. A bill to require persons applying for public lands to make oath that they are not deserters from the army, resisted the draft, or discouraged enlistments, was introduced and referred to the Committee on Public Lands. Mr. Davis, of Maryland, introduced a resolution relative to the authority of Congress to prescribe the foreign policy of the country, was laid on the table by a vote of 69 to 63. Mr. Davis then asked to be relieved from service on the Committee on Foreign Relations. After a long and interesting debate, the House refused to accede to his request. Mr. Sohley, of Ohio, gave notice that on the 6th of January next he would call up the pending joint resolution from the Senate, proposing a Constitutional amendment for the abolition of slavery throughout the country, and that he would demand a vote upon the resolution the Monday following. The House, after passing a resolution to adjourn on the 22d December to Jan. 5, and several appropriation bills, adjourned till Monday.

GENERAL NEWS.

The Gold Room closed at 4 o'clock yesterday, 234¾@235 per cent. Government Stocks steady. The 10-40 years, 5 per cents., in demand at par and interest since 1st of September. The Railways dull and lower than on Wednesday.

Edward Burns, who was convicted of highway robbery in the Court of Sessions, having been a partner of Henneman in his attack on Mr. Olcott, was sentenced yesterday by Recorder Hoffman to ten years and six months confinement in the State Prison. Henneman was previously sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment.

The demand for Produce was more animated yesterday at firmer prices, especially for Pork, which advanced materially, but closed heavily. Foreign Merchandise was also in rather more request. Moderate freight engagements were reported.

The flagship Hartford left her anchorage in the North River at 2 P. M. yesterday, and proceeded to the Navy-yard.

The New-York oil "diggings" promise in time to become as remunerative as those of Pennsylvania or West Virginia, and Cattaraugus County is fast becoming the Mecca of those who hasten to be rich. Several companies have been formed to develop the resources of that region, and they are vigorously boring for the coveted product, with good prospects of success. The land in the vicinity of the oil territory has all been bought up, and is now held at high figures.

Kossuth writes to Secretary Seward, under date of Sept. 16: "It was always my conviction that nothing but the sword can decide between the conflicting principles of freedom and slavery in the United States. The time has come for the bloody but unavoidable arbitration. I pray to God to give his blessing to your endeavor, that the curse and stain of slavery be forever removed from your country, and the Democratic principle shall not be found wanting in the trial to which we see it exposed."

The Wampanoag, first-class sloop-of-war, was successfully launched, yesterday forenoon, from the Brooklyn Navy-Yard.

About 5 o'clock last evening, Peter Somers, a brakeman, fell off the platform of a down train on the Harlem Railroad, at the corner of Ninetieth-street and Fourth-avenue. Two wheels of a car passed over him, crushing him to death instantly. The body was conveyed to the Twenty-third Precinct Station-house, where an inquest will be held this morning.

Both Boards of the Common Council were in session yesterday. The Aldermen did nothing but pass upon routine papers. The Councilmen concurred in overruling the Mayor's veto on the resolution to contract with E. Jones & Co. for the Corporation printing at the prices heretofore paid. Mr. Jaques opposed the resolution vigorously, but on the vote he stood alone in the negative. The Councilmen also passed the ordinance some time ago proposed by the representatives of the Fire Department, for the regulation and government of that department. Both Boards adjourned to 3 P. M. to-day.

The United States Supreme Court met yesterday as usual, when Chief-Justice Chase appeared and took his seat. After taking the oath of office, the Court proceeded to business.

A Retired Democratic Editor.—We see it announced that Isaac Butts, Esq., has retired from the Rochester Union & Advertiser, of which he has been the editor and part proprietor for many years. We are glad to know that he retires upon a handsome fortune, the result of the energy, enterprise and ability by which his conduct of the Union has been marked. The paper has been intense and not always over-scrupulous in its partisan hostility to the Administration and its friends, though neither have suffered very materially, as results show, from its vigorous and vehement warfare.

What change the retirement of Mr. Butts is to cause in the conduct of the Union, we are not aware; but we trust it is not to deprive it of the personal and political attacks upon the Editor of the Times, which have constituted for the last two or three years its most conspicuous feature. Scarcely a day has been suffered to pass without something of this sort, backed up by copious citations from our files and garnished with italics, capitals and exclamation points in the very highest style of that peculiar art. We have seldom referred to the matter hitherto, but we should be sorry to have it supposed that these attentions have not been appreciated. In the midst of our most arduous labors, we have had the consolation of knowing that, however others might neglect us, we were sure of one attentive, diligent and critical reader. We hope Mr. Butts has not carried into retirement with him the files of the Times, from which such liberal contributions have always been drawn for the columns of the Union & Advertiser, for we are sure they would be much more missed, and perhaps we may add regretted, by the readers than he will.

Mr. Butts has our best wishes in his new position. He has earned repose, as he has earned the fortune which will enable him to enjoy it.

The Hostility of Canada—The Anglo-Rebel Alliance.

Judge Coursol, as we learn from an official source, not content with simply discharging the rebel raiders, returned to them the moneys stolen from the St. Alban's banks; and Montreal brokers have converted the funds into gold. This crowns the rascality. There is a report that the Canadian authorities have ordered the re-arrest of the gang. It matters little whether this is true or not. There is little probability that such an order even if issued, would be executed, for the raiders would not stay to be caught. There is less probability that even if executed, it would lead to either extradition to our Government, in accordance with the Ashburton Treaty, or to punishment by the Canadian Government for a violation of the laws of neutrality. The display of Canadian honor and justice already given in this case, is proof that they are mere snares.

It is useless to mince matters. No charity can soften the facts. The Canadian people have given shelter and friendship to men who have robbed and murdered American citizens. Their court has barred the operation of the Ashburton Treaty against these criminals, by interposing technicalities which were just as applicable to any case that has occurred during the twenty-two years' history of that Treaty, and yet were never before dreamed of; and it has not only set the outlaws free, but has secured them their plunder. It is impossible to make anything else of this than that Canada has been turned into a regular base of rebel operations against our Government and people—and a base more advantageous than any other, because more secure, being under the protection of a professedly neutral flag.

This state of things is deplorable, yet it must be met, not with the cries of children, but by the action of men. We must with our own hands apply the remedy. Canadian territory must be respected no more than Virginia or South Carolina territory. The guerrillas which attack us at the North must be hunted down with the same vigor of pursuit as when they attack at the South; and the British flag must not deter us one whit more in the one case than the Confederate flag deters us in the other. By every law, human and divine, men are privileged to protect themselves from robbery and assassination, It is more than a privilege; it is a duty.

It may be said that this will lead to a war with England. So it may. But if it must come, let it come. Not ours the guilt; it will belong only to English malignity and lawlessness. We were never in better condition for a war with England. We have no commerce on the high seas for her to pillage, thanks to the piratical vessels she has built and manned for the rebels. But her own commerce whitens all the seas, and we could speedily make a clean sweep of it. We are fast completing the occupation of the rebel coast, so that the blockade will no longer have to be maintained. We have six hundred vessels that will need employment; and none could possibly be more profitable than scouring from pole to pole for British prizes. As for the British navy, it is a pasteboard sham. There is not a vessel that one of our prime iron-clads could not send to the bottom in fifteen minutes. There is not a gun that would be better than a swivel when pitted against our fifteen and twenty inch Parrotts. What there is of the British army is on the other side of the world, and is obliged to remain there to keep the stolen territory. Not a British soldier would ever tread a foot of American soil. The red squads that are in Canada would be, before one of our corps of veterans, like yellow leaves before the whirlwind. There is nothing in Canada that could offer us serious resistance. So, too, of the British West Indies, which might be made invaluable appendages of our great Republic. Moreover, Ireland, if we pleased, could be detached from the British crown, or at least made worthless to it. Let war once be declared and an Irish expedition once be named, a half million of Irishmen would spring to arms and crowd every transport to avenge Ireland's wrongs on Ireland's own soil. There is already an organization of Fenian Brothers, numbering more than a hundred thousand picked men, who are anxiously awaiting just that opportunity.

We might dwell with reason upon the policy of a war with England, as a means of arousing the dormant American spirit of the Southern people, and attracting them to the old Government. Our rebels have been glad of British aid, but we will do them the justice to say that they have the intensest scorn of British meanness. They know full well that all the favor they have got from England has come from her selfishness; and that it was the lack of courage alone that deprived them of the favor they were led to expect, and did not get. There are no Americans on this continent that hate and despise England more than do the rebels whom she has been serving in, her way. If there is one thing more than any other which would light up the eyes of the dying rebellion with a gleam of satisfaction, it would be the tidings that England was writhing in the same grasp that had crushed its own life.

But let all this pass. It is hardly meet to talk in this connection of what we can do, and of the advantage of doing it. The case, as now made by the Canadians, leaves us no alternative. One simple statement covers it all. If the Canadians persist in allowing these murderous incursions into our territory, we must protect ourselves, whatever be the consequence. Submission to such outrage would stamp us the most abject of men. Every principle and every instinct alike cry out against it.

The Supplies for our Prisoners.—We are quite sure that the order yesterday promulgated by the War Department, under which special supplies for our loyal and long-enduring soldiers still in captivity at the South, must have carried joy to many a Northern fireside. Let us here repeat, in a word or two, the essential points of the order as given in our Washington dispatches. Col. Mulford, who has been acting as the Union agent for the exchange of prisoners, and whose address is Fortress Monroe, is named for the special duty of forwarding supplies. And the list of articles which the agent is authorized to forward the loyal sufferers, include almost everything that can be supposed to minister to their material comforts. We are sure that we need not urge the importance of seeing to the immediate performance of the duty which this order makes at once practicable. There are thousands of households among us to respond with alacrity at the bare suggestion of an opportunity of communicating with the absent loved ones. And it is unnecessary for us, we feel assured, to do more than indicate the agency through which supplies can be sent to the military prisons and camps of the South.

The Battle of Yesterday at Nashville.

We have an official dispatch recounting briefly the facts of a heavy battle which opened at Nashville at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and continued up to last evening, with great success on our part; but even at night the battle was undecided. Gen. Thomas, who has been quietly waiting his opportunity in Nashville for a fortnight past, began the attack on Hood's forces lying around the city, and before nightfall our line had advanced five miles on the right, and the enemy had been driven from the Cumberland River, from their intrenchments, from the range of hills on which their left rested, and in general had been forced back one to three miles, with heavy loss. Hood's whole army was engaged in the action.

We fully expect that to-day the gallant and wary Thomas will complete the work which he so well began yesterday. It would seem, from the brief dispatches we have, that the heaviest part of his work is already done, in driving them from the intrenchments which they have been busy for a fortnight in throwing up.

Sherman at Savannah.

The news which we were enabled to give yesterday direct from the army of Gen. Sherman, was very refreshing and exhilarating after the rubbish, rhodomontade and lies which the rebels have been sending us about him daily for the last thirty days. We have placed no credence upon the reports which they gave us so plentifully as to the fearful punishment they were inflicting upon him, and the terrible disasters that were befalling him. We had no means of detecting the falsehood in each particular case, or in any of the cases; but still, amid the dense cloud of rebel lies, we could see that Sherman's two great columns were steadily advancing from one point to another, were passing across one county and another, over one river after another, along one and another railroad, onward, ever onward and forward, to his destination on the Atlantic seaboard. Even the whinings and screamings and complainings in the rebel newspapers led us to believe that Sherman was doing very effective work in destroying the rebel resources, and was finding good stock of supplies and forage for the use of his army.

The rebel stories about his disasters were either too large to be true, or too trifling to have any significance, or too absurd to call forth anything but irrepressible cachination. We predicted, when Sherman left Atlanta, just one month ago, that the heavy columns of the Richmond newspapers would demolish his entire army at least twenty times before he got to Savannah. The Richmond Examiner facetiously remarked upon this that they only intended to demolish him once, but that they would do it so thoroughly that nothing further would be needed. That journal accordingly began by "ruining" his entire army in its columns when he had been out but six days; but, after all, it was not able to stop with this; for it has kept on ruining him, in the gross and in detail, almost every day since then, as the extracts copied into our own issues will show. Wheeler has defeated Kilpatrick at least forty times, although the latter was usually aided by from one to three brigades of infantry; and we should not be surprised if, on the total result of all these defeats, Kilpatrick's Cavalry should reach the seaboard nearly as strong as when it left Atlanta. In like manner, the Georgia militia (or "melish," as our men call them,) have been playing havoc, in detail, with Sherman's infantry corps, which, however, has not prevented him from reaching Savannah with his army intact twelve days before he expected to reach it when he set out on his great march.

It was on Friday last that Gen. Howard, commanding the "Army of the Tennessee," or Sherman's right wing, reached the immediate neighborhood of Savannah. Whether our army has yet all come up, and closed in upon and attacked the city, the rebels have not, so far, seen proper to inform us.

Our Prisoners Once More—The Exchange and its Continuance.

We give to-day another letter from before Charleston from our special correspondent, who accompanied the fleet that went down to bring North the ten thousand Union prisoners for whom a special exchange has been effected. It appears that we have now succeeded in bringing back nearly the whole of the ten thousand.

The picture given of the condition of the ship-loads of released men most recently brought away, and of the condition of the officers and men who still remain in rebel hands, is of the same heartrending character as the description we had a fortnight since of the first load just brought to us from Savannah. There is no cessation, no mitigation of the rebel cruelty, and we fear there will be none as long as they have Union soldiers to torture, or as long as they are allowed to do it with impunity.

The rebels still hold about forty-five thousand of our men as prisoners, and there are about fifty-five thousand rebel soldiers now prisoners in our hands. The bulk of these captive Union officers and soldiers are at present confined at Florence and Columbia, in South Carolina; at Salisbury, in North Carolina, with small bodies at other points in these and other States.

We do most earnestly hope that liberation will not stop with the ten thousand we have now received. We most earnestly trust that negotiations will immediately be entered upon to secure a general exchange of all prisoners. The rebel authorities, it is understood, offer to exchange all our white soldiers man for man with theirs; and even those of our black soldiers who were freemen before the war they desire to exchange. The main difference of opinion between the parties is as to the exchange of those negroes enlisted in our armies who are claimed as slaves by the rebels. There are minor disputes, we believe, in reference to the Vicksburgh prisoners and other matters; but they really seem to us unworthy of being weighed for a moment against the lives of the thousands and tens of thousands of our brave soldiers who have been, and still are being, sacrificed, and subjected to all sorts of inhuman tortures of body and soul, by the rebels. Besides, we have a balance of ten thousand prisoners in our favor, and in our hands; and these we can hold till the rebel authorities do justice in the matters in dispute.

We favor a renewal and continuance of the exchange, and a general exchange. No man who understands the merits of the case as it now stands—no man who has a heart sympathetic with his suffering fellows, and who read the letters from before Savannah published in our issues of the 26th and 28th ult., or the letter which we publish to-day from before Charleston—can do otherwise. If any cold-blooded man thinks differently, and would continue to interpose quibbles in such a tragical matter, we are sure he would very quickly change his opinion if he were for one week to take the place of any one of our poor prisoners in the horrible camps of the Confederate rebels.

Amusements.

"Don Giovanni in Brooklyn."—Despite the inclemency of the weather, an immense audience—one of the largest ever gathered in Brooklyn—attended at the production of "Don Giovanni," last night. The occasion seemed a fit one for the admirers of Miss Kellogg to indulge in most extravagant demonstrations of regard and appreciation, her rôle being made a triumphal scene from the opening to the close. Bellini, Mme. Zucchi and Mlle. Morensi were in admirable voice, and the opera passed off with entire success. On Thursday next, "Don Sebastian."

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Special Dispatches to the New-York Times.

Washington, Thursday, Dec. 15.

INSTALLATION OF CHIEF-JUSTICE CHASE.

The Supreme Court-room was crowded this morning by Senators, Representatives, officers, members of the bar and ladies, to witness the installation of Chief-Justice Chase. When the Judges had taken their seats, Justice Wayne handed a written copy of the official oath to Chief-Justice Chase, who read it aloud. The Clerk of the Court then read Mr. Chase's commission, and the business of the court proceeded. Before entering the court-room, Judge Chase took the new oath of allegiance prescribed at the last session of Congress.

Mr. Sumner, of Massachusetts, (Union,) offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested, if not inconsistent with the public interests, to furnish to the Senate any information on the files of the department of State concerning the paper published in the volume of treaties, and entitled "An arrangement between the United States and Great Britain, between Richard Rush, Esq., acting as Secretary of State, and Charles Bagot, His Britannic Majesty's Envoy Extraordinary, relating to the naval force to be maintained upon the American lakes.

This was referred to the Committee on Finance.

PETITION FOR INCREASED PAY.

Mr. Wilson of Massachusetts, (Union,) presented a petition from officers of the army of the James asking for an increase of pay, which was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

DISLOYAL PERSONS IN GOVERNMENT EMPLOY.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas, (Union,) offered the following:

Resolved, That the Committee on the Conduct of the War be instructed to inquire as to the truth of the alleged charges that large numbers of disloyal persons are in the employment of the Government in the navy-yards, Quartermaster's and Ordnance Departments, etc., of the country, to the exclusion of loyal men, with power to send for persons and papers.

Mr. Lane, of Kansas—I desire to make a statement that was made in my presence last night before a large assembly of gentlemen, in a public speech, that a few days ago the son of a soldier who died of starvation in a rebel prison applied at the Philadelphia Navy-yard for the employment which was necessary for the maintainance of the family left by this soldier who had died of starvation. He was refused, while at the moment of his refusal there were thousands of disloyal men in the employment of that navy-yard. I make that statement in the hearing of the Chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs, and call his attention to it. I ask for the passage of the resolution.

Mr. Chandler, of Michigan, (Union,) suggested that as the Committee on the Conduct of the War had as much before it as it could possibly do between now and the 4th of March, the resolution had better be referred to a special committee.

Mr. Lane said that his object was to have the investigation made and the report upon it before the installation of the new Administration. If there was such an evil as spoken of, it should be made known, and the policy of the Administration should be changed in its installation. He was one of the men who believe that no government could be successfully administered unless it surrounded itself with office-holders in sympathy with it. He wanted the report before the 4th of March next.

Mr. Johnson, of Maryland, (Dem.,) did not know that he had any more confidence in the Administration than the Senator from Kansas, but he had no doubt the President would see to it that the offices were filled by loyal men. Whatever might be said as to the loyalty of the navy-yard employes, it was a fact that they all voted for Mr. Lincoln. He did not believe the Senate had any right to interfere in this matter, which, he thought, was one pertaining to the Executive Department of the Government. Suppose the investigation turned out as the Senator from Kansas anticipated, what could the Senate do? Nothing but express an opinion which could have no legal binding whatever upon the President, and he might or might not disregard it, either because he thought it to his interest to do so, or because he did not concur in the conclusion of the Senate on the subject. He was opposed to the resolution.

The resolution of Mr. Lane was then passed.

THE NORTHERN FRONTIER.

Mr. Chandler asked to call up the first resolution offered by him yesterday. He wished it to be referred to the Military Committee without debate.

Mr. Sumner suggested that it be referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. If it took that direction he would have nothing to say, otherwise he should speak on it.

Mr. Chandler was willing that it should go to the Committee on Foreign Relations, and it was so referred.

Mr. Chandler then called up the second resolution offered by him yesterday, and it was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations.

THE MILITIA SYSTEM.

Mr. Brown, of Missouri, (Union) offered the following, which was adopted:

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs and the Militia be and they are hereby instructed to inquire into the expediency of so amending the act of Congress of March 8, 1792, entitled "An Act to more effectually provide for the National Defence, by establishing a uniform militia throughout the United States, and the several acts amendatory of the same," as shall provide for the enrollment of all male citizens between the ages of 18 and 45, resident in the respective States, without respect to color, and also to submit such other provisions as may tend more efficiently to organize the militia system of the United States, and report by bill or otherwise.

COMMERCE AMONG THE SEVERAL STATES.

On motion of Mr. Chandler, the House bill to regulate commerce among the several States, was made the special order for the first Wednesday in January.

THE GUNBOAT FOR LIBERIA.

On motion of Mr. Sumner, the bill to transfer a gunboat to the Government of Liberia, was taken up.

Mr. Powell, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) was opposed to the bill. He did not believe the Government of the United States ought to sell gunboats to other Governments.

Mr. Sumner said that the bill was drawn up in accordance with the recommendation of the President in his Message, and read the passage in the Message which relates to the subject.

The yeas and nays were demanded by Mr. Powell.

The bill was passed by yeas 33, nays 9.

Messrs Buckalew, Carlile, Davis, Harding, Powell, Richardson, Riddle and Wright were those who voted in the negative.

ADJOURNMENT TILL MONDAY.

Mr. Foot, of Vermont, (Union,) moved that when the Senate adjourn, it be until Monday next.

The motion was carried.

THE ASSAULT ON PETERSBURGH.

Mr. Anthony, of Rhode Island, (Union,) offered a resolution, which was adopted, instructing the Committee on the Conduct of the War to inquire into the facts connected with the assault on Petersburgh, on the 30th of July, 1864.

The Senate then adjourned until Monday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Washington, Thursday, Dec. 15.

Mr. Schenck, of Ohio, (Union,) objected to the consideration of the resolution unless it were referred to the Committee on Military Affairs, which, he said, now had that subject under consideration, and had already obtained information concerning it.

Mr. Holman's resolution was referred to the Committee on Military Affairs.

THE CASE OF LIEUT.-GOV. JACOBS.

Mr. Mallory, of Kentucky, (Dem.,) asked leave to offer a resolution requesting the President to communicate all papers bearing on the arrest and imprisonment of Lieut.-Gov. Jacobs and Col. Wolford, the latter one of the Presidential electors of Kentucky, by whose order arrested, and where they are imprisoned.

Mr. Stevens, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) objected.

On motion of Mr. Orth, of Indiana, (Union,) the House took up and passed the Senate bill providing for a special term of court for the District of Indiana.

THE PENSION LAWS.

THE NORTHERN FRONTIER.

Mr. Cox, of Ohio, (Dem.) offered a resolution, which was adopted, that the Secretary of State, if not incompatible with the public service, communicate to this House all communications on file in his office, with reference to the difficulties upon the Northern borders, and which have not been referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Mr. Cox said this information was desired with a view to some action of the Committee on Foreign Affairs and for the elucidation of the questions committed to them.

TAXES ON SAILING VESSELS.

On motion of Mr. BLANE, of Maine, (Union,) the Committee of Ways and Means was instructed to inquire into the expediency of exempting sailing vessels of five hundred tons and upward from the two per cent. tax imposed in the 94th section of the Internal Revenue act of 1864.

NAVY-YARD AT OSWEGO.

Mr. LITTLEJOHN, of New-York, (Union,) offered a resolution which was referred to the Committee of Commerce, directing an inquiry as to the establishment of a Navy-Yard at Oswego, New-York.

THE SUBSISTENCE DEPARTMENT.

Mr. SCHENCK reported from the Committee on Military Affairs, a bill for the better organization of the Subsistence Department.

THANKS TO CAPT. WINSLOW AND LIEUT. CUSHING.

On motion of Mr. RICE, of Massachusetts, (Union,) the House took up and passed the Senate joint resolution giving the thanks of Congress to Capt. WINSLOW and Lieut. CUSHING, the one for destroying the Alabama and the other for destroying the Albemarle.

THE PUBLIC LANDS.

Mr. DONNELLY, of Minnesota, (Union,) introduced a bill to require all persons applying for the benefit of the preemption and homestead laws, to make oath that they had not deserted from the army, or resisted the draft, or secreted themselves to avoid being enrolled or drafted, or discouraged enlistments, and providing that whenever such offences could be proved, the land claimed should revert to the Government.

The bill was referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

FOREIGN POLICY.

Mr. DAVIS, of Maryland, (Union,) from the Committee on Foreign affairs, reported the following resolution:

Resolved, That Congress has a Constitutional right to an authoritative voice in declaring and prescribing the foreign policy of the United States, as well as in the recognition of new Powers as in other matters, and it is the Constitutional duty of the President to respect that policy, not less in diplomatic relations than in the use of the National force when authorized by law, and the propriety of any declaration of foreign policy by Congress is sufficiently proved by the vote which pronounces it, and such proposition, while pending and undetermined, is not a fit topic of diplomatic explanation with any Foreign Power.

Mr. DAVIS moved the previous question on the passage of the resolution.

Mr. FARNSWORTH moved that the resolution lie on the table, which was decided in the affirmative by Yeas, 69; Nays, 63; as follows:

YEAS.—Messrs. Alley, Ames, Anderson, Arnold, Bailey, Baldwin of Massachusetts, Baxter, Beaman, Blaine, Blair, Butwell, Boyd, Broomall, Ambrose W. Clark, Cobb, Cole, Davis of New-York, Dawes, Deming, Dixon, Donelly, Driggs, Eckley, Eliot, Farnsworth, Gooch, Grinnell, Hale, Higby, Hotckiss, Hubbard of Connecticut, Hulburd, Ingersoll, Kelley, Kellogg of Michigan, Kellogg of New-York, Littlejohn, Longyear, Marvin, McBride, McIndoe, Miller of New-York, Moorhead, Morrill, Morris of New-York, Amos Myers, Leonard Myers, Norton, O'Neill of Pennsylvania, Patterson, Perham, Pike, Pomeroy, Price, Rice of Massachusetts, Rollins of New-Hampshire, Scofield, Shannon, Smith, Spalding, Thomas, Tracy, Upson, Washburne of Illinois, Washburn of Massachusetts, Whaley, Wheeler, Wilson, Windom and Woodbridge.

NAYS—Messrs. James C. Allen, Allison, Ancona, Ashley, Baldwin, of Michigan; Baxter, Bliss, Blow, Brooks, Brown, of West Virginia; Chanler, Cox, Cravens, Davis, of Maryland; Dawson, Denison, Eden, Edgerton, Eldridge, Finck, Ganson, Garfield, Griswold, Harding, Herrick, Holman, Hubbard, of Iowa; Jenckes, Johnson, of Pennsylvania; Kalbfleisch, Kiernan, King, Knox, Law, LeBlond, Loan, Mallery, Murray, McAllister, Miller, of Pennsylvania; Morris, of Ohio; Morrison, Noble, Odell, O'Neill, of Ohio; Orth, Pendleton, Perry, Radforth, Randall, of Pennsylvania, Schenck, Sloan, Smithers, Starr, Steele, of New-Jersey, Steele, of New-York, Stevens, Stiles, Stuart, Sweat, Townsend, Wodsworth and Yeaman.

Mr. DAVIS of Maryland, when the result of the vote was announced, asked to be relieved from service on the Committee on Foreign Relations. He desired to take all the responsibility connected with any service which the House might put upon him—but when in the course of the discharge of his duties he found himself to differ from the opinion of the majority, he thought he should no longer hold any such position. The House at the last session, on his motion passed a resolution touching the foreign policy in relation to the Republic of Mexico, and it was adopted unanimously. It was sent to the Senate, and there it still lies. It had been passed by the House only a very few days, when the officer charged with the foreign correspondence of this Government directed our representative abroad virtually to apologize to the French Government for the resolution passed by the representatives of the American people, asserting, in effect, that this House had gone beyond its just jurisdiction in undertaking to prescribe to the President the rule by which he should be guided. This correspondence was made the subject of a circular to all the foreign Governments, to let them understand that Congress has no right to speak with regard to the foreign affairs of this Government, and that nothing was to be regarded but what came with the sanction of the Executive branch of the Government. The correspondence of the Secretary of State was in its tone disrespectful to the dignity and character of the House of Representatives. The Secretary of State had, in the face of all Europe, slapped the House of Representatives in the face, in his correspondence with the French Government, and he asked the House whether it would not to-day assert its own dignity.

Mr. COX said if the House should excuse the gentleman from Maryland, he, himself, would ask to be excused from further service on the Committee on Foreign Affairs. The House sent this resolution on French intervention to the committee. The gentleman examined with great deliberation and much learning, as the report in the case would show. That report challenged the admiration of everybody, excepting those who are not intelligent enough to read the proceedings of Congress, or who do not understand the diplomatic history of the subject.

Mr. BLAINE said a parallel of history was sometimes worth looking at. The foreign correspondence with France had brought this question before the House. Three-quarters of a century ago we had a difficulty with this same nation, and this difficulty resulted in giving us a precedent. The very same objections and appeals were made during the Administration of WASHINGTON by GENET, and pressed upon JEFFERSON, then Secretary of State, and he called attention to the facts, (reading them from the life of JEFFERSON.) GENET and JEFFERSON had discussed a friendly proposition which GENET had brought from his own nation, and said it ought not to be adopted without consulting Congress. GENET having got into a more moderate tone, JEFFERSON stopped him, and explained the functions of our Government, saying "that all these questions belonged to the Executive Department; and even if Congress were in session, they could not be referred to it." GENET asked "if Congress was not sovereign," and JEFFERSON said "no;" and "that Congress was sovereign only in making laws, the Executive in executing them, and the Judiciary in construing them." Said the Citizen GENET: "Congress binds us to treaties and their observance." Jefferson said: "No, there are very few cases arising out of treaties of which Congress can take notice." GENET was satisfied. We have the same Constitution which existed at that day. He could not see anything more mischievous than for Congress to plant itself on this resolution. By it we absolutely deny a concurrent power on the part of the Executive. It overturns the entire history of our Government, and sets out on an entirely new course. He thought the House justified its self-respect by laying the resolution on the table.

Mr. STEVENS, of Pennsylvania, said he was so obtuse that he failed to see the least analogy between the cases cited by the gentleman from Maine. JEFFERSON very properly told GENET that Congress had no right to interfere with treaty stipulations, for treaties, by the Constitution, are the supreme law of the land. This is the whole extent of the precedent. He could not see that it had any bearing on the question before them. Suppose Congress should pass a law not permitting any foreign power to establish a monarchy on the continent of North America. Has not Congress power to say we will not suffer thrones to be erected within our domains? If we can enforce it, well. He was now speaking of the power of Congress. If it led to war, Congress alone has power to make the declaration. How then could it interfere with the Executive authority, when the House proposed a joint resolution that a certain line of policy should be the law of the land? It is as clear as the sun at noonday, unless we are willing to stultify ourselves. Last session we passed a resolution protesting against the interference by France in the affairs of Mexico. Have gentlemen now awoke to a sense of their error on that occasion? One branch of this Government—the Executive—in rebuking this body, tells foreign nations that we are an impertinent set of meddlers, and the Executive pays no attention to this body. He (STEVENS) had no censure to bestow on this body. Did it not become Congress to say: "Get out of the way, Mexican heretics, and do not interfere with the grand policy of the Republics of the continent?" And were they to pause because foreign Governments found fault, and because gentlemen say here these questions mean nothing, and the representatives of the people are nothing, that their sense of policy means nothing, and we need not trouble ourselves about it, for the Secretary of State will take care that these impertinent boys shall do no harm? [Laughter.] It was the duty of the House to vindicate the dignity of the country, and to elevate it from the low depth to which it has sunk. When an opportunity shall be afforded, he would endeavor to introduce the resolution in a modified form, asserting that it is the duty of the Executive Department to respect the policy. He was opposed to excusing the gentleman from Maryland from service on the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

Mr. BOUTWELL said he voted with the majority to lay the resolution on the table. He could not see that the vote of the majority was a reflection on the gentleman from Maryland. No gentleman enjoys to a fuller extent the respect of this House than he does. He therefore hoped the gentleman would not be excused. It was well known that at the last session the House passed a resolution affirming the Monroe Doctrine, which was not sustained by the Senate. Hence the resolution could not be taken as an expression of the sense of Congress. It merely expressed the will of this House. The resolution which the House has laid upon the table is peculiar on this point. It asserts that Congress, not the House, has a Constitutional right to an authoritative voice in declaring and preserving the foreign policy of the United States, as well in the recognition of new powers as in other matters. If the resolution had stopped there, no gentleman would have questioned its propriety; but it went further, and declared that "it is the Constitutional duty of the President to respect that policy, not less in diplomatic negotiations than in those of the national forces when authorized by law." This part of the resolution conveys the impression that the President is acknowledged to obey Congress in the exercise of Constitutional rights.

Mr. FARNSWORTH explained that he made the motion with no intention of disrespect toward the gentleman from Maryland, but purely from a sense of duty. He hoped the gentleman would not be excused.

The discussion was further continued by Messrs. SPAULDING, of Ohio, DAWES, of Massachusetts, COX, of Ohio, and LITTLEJOHN, of New-York.

The question was then taken, and the House refused to excuse Mr. DAVIS from further service on the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

THE HOLIDAYS.

Mr. STEVENS offered a resolution, that, the Senate concurring, the House will adjourn on Thursday, the 22d inst., to Jan. 5, 1865. He said it was perfectly clear the House would gain nothing by refusing to adjourn over the Holidays.

The resolution was agreed to.

THE REBELLIOUS STATES.

Mr. ASHLEY, of Ohio, (Union,) introduced a bill to guarantee to certain States, subverted or overthrown by rebellion, a republican form of Government, which was ordered to be printed.

MARINE HOSPITAL AT ERIE, PENN.

Mr. SCOFIELD, of Pennsylvania, (Union,) offered a resolution, which was passed, instructing the Committee on Commerce to inquire into the expediency of establishing a Marine Hospital at Erie, Pennsylvania.

THE ABOLITION OF SLAVERY.

Mr. ASHLEY gave notice that on the 6th of January next he would call up the pending joint resolution from the Senate, proposing a Constitutional amendment for the abolition of slavery throughout the country, and that he would demand a vote upon the resolution the Monday following.

APPROPRIATIONS.

The House passed the bill making appropriations for invalid and other pensions, and the bill making appropriations for the diplomatic and consular establishments. Also the joint resolution, giving the true construction and meaning to so much of the Internal Revenue Act as relates to the tax on tobacco and cigars, and in addition to the above, passed a bill providing that, in computing the three years allowed by the twenty-first section of the act entitled: "An act increasing temporarily the duties on imports, and for other purposes," approved July 14, 1862, for the withdrawal of goods from any public store or bonded warehouse for exportation to foreign countries, or transhipment to any part of the Pacific or western coast of the United States, if such exportation or transhipment of any goods shall enter for the whole or for any part of the said term of three years, have been prevented by reason of any order of the President of the United States, the time during which such exportation or transhipment of such goods shall have been so prevented as aforesaid, shall be excluded from the said computation.

The House then adjourned till Monday.

A THRILLING INCIDENT.

Loss of the Schooner R. B. Howlett, of Philadelphia.

The Sole Survivor of the Crew Picked Up at Sea.

Himself and a Dead Man Adrift on a Fragment of Wreck.

From Our Special Correspondent,

OFF CHARLESTON, Saturday, Dec. 10, 1864.

In the course of my wanderings for the TIMES, I have met with varied adventures by "flood and field," and had supposed that as far as I was concerned, the entire stock of sensations was exhausted,—that there was "nothing new under the sun." This was a vain notion, for there yet remained for me to witness the thrilling incident I am about to describe—an incident showing in a signal manner the interposition of Divine Providence in the rescue from death of a shipwrecked man out at sea, who had been floating for days, with a dead comrade, on a fragment of wreck, at the mercy of the angry waves. I was on board Col. MULFORD'S dispatch steamer Eliza Hancox, Capt. POST, this afternoon, on the way from Port Royal to Charleston, having been detained at Hilton Head yesterday by as heavy a northeast gale as has been experienced on the coast for years, leaving old Ocean's mane to-day lashing furiously. No sun was visible, and a dense fog shut in our horizon to very narrow limits. We arrived off Edisto Island about 4½ o'clock, having passed on the way up immense pieces of wreck, which were significant of a recent disaster at sea.

Just as darkness was closing around us, pilot HARDIE, of the Hancox, discovered off to seaward a large fragment of the wreck than any we had yet seen, and made the suggestion that we should run down to it and ascertain if it supported a human being. Capt. POST acceeded, and we had scarcely changed our course when a thrill of joy passed through all on board, at the sight of a poor creature running frantically around his narrow raft like an imprisoned animal in a cage, and waving his hands imploringly. Ever and again the man would be hidden from our view as a mighty wave with curling crest, curled over his frail support. The Hancox's boat was lowered and gallantly manned by volunteers from the crew, who did not weigh the risk to themselves in braving the angry sea, while they sturdily pulled toward the shipwrecked sailor. With some difficulty they laid their boat alongside the raft, with not only getting the living man on board, but, in obedience to their humane impulse, bringing off the ghostly corpse that lay bound to the wreck beside him.

The boat returned in safety to the Hancox, and after the rescued man had got the chills out of his bones, by the aid of hot coffee and warm clothes, he told the following story:

His name he gave as JOHN R. CRUSE, of Dorchester, N. J., and said that he was a hand on the schooner R. B. Howlett, of Philadelphia. The vessel had been lying two months or more inside Charleston bar, with a cargo of coal for the blockading fleet, and had recently been anchored in the channel-way, and used as the inside lightship. Her crew list was as follows:

Captain—JAMES BREWER, of Absecom, N. J.

Mate—A. H. DEAN, who hailed from some port "Down East."

Crew—Chas. Winslow, of Port Richmond, Penn.; Lewis Mulcott, of Millville, N. J.; John R. Cruse, of Dorchester, N. J.; Enoch Turner and another seaman had left the schooner a day or two before.

CRUSE, continuing his narrative, said that on Friday morning, about 9 o'clock, they experienced the full fury of the hurricane. The stock of the anchor which held the schooner, broke through the force of the gale, and the vessel began to drag. An attempt was then made to let go the other anchor, but the chain fouled at the hawse hole after 2½ fathoms had run out, and it was impossible to extricate it. In this plight the vessel began to drive toward the northern bar, when Capt. BREWER made an effort to get her under sail, but she would not "wear," owing to the dead weight of the anchor, and nothing further could be done to save her from going ashore. Presently she struck, and the first blow knocked her stern completely out. Heeling over on her bilge, the second blow snapped all her lee timbers like pipe stems, and in half an hour afterwards she was broken to pieces. The entire company got on the foremast while it remained standing, and when it fell all managed to secure small pieces of the wreck, but the sea ran so high, and an ebb tide setting off shore, made it impossible for a human being to long escape drowning under such circumstances.

For an hour or more CRUSE and his companions buffetted the waves, gradually becoming separated by the angry sea, and the last that he saw of them convinced him that not one could hold out a great while longer.

DEAN, the mate, was on a piece of the poop deck, and CRUSE drifted near him, succeeded in getting upon it, thus obtaining a better support than the deck plank which he had seized when the vessel went to pieces. Upon this small piece of the deck he and his companion were carried out to sea, passing through the breakers off Stono Inlet, where they were several times washed off. DEAN had been severely bruised on the head by a plank when he was thrown into the water, and only survived the injury and his desperate circumstances until 10½ o'clock on Friday night. For hours before his death he was senseless and helpless, and CRUSE'S strength was nearly exhausted in his attempt to hold him on the raft. After the decease of his companion, CRUSE divested him of his clothing, to add to his own comfort, and lashed the corpse to the wreck, having already contemplated the horrible necessity of feeding upon it, if another day passed without relief came to him. When we rescued CRUISE he had been thirty-three hours without food or drink.

The remains of DEAN were placed in a coffin, (of which there were about thirty on board the Hancox for the burial of deceased soldiers released by the rebels,) and will be interred on Morris Island. Col. MULFORD intends to send the survivor of this frightful disaster home by the steamer United States, which leaves on Monday with released prisoners for Annapolis.

The Hewlett was built in Baltimore about four years since. She was a strong vessel of 120 tons measurement.

Perry's

MOTH AND FRECKLE LOTION.

Chloasma, or Moth Patches, Lentigo or Freckles, blemishes in the face called moth, are very annoying, particularly to ladies of light complexion, as the discolored spots on the face show more strongly on blondes than brunettes; but they contribute greatly in marring the beauty on either; and anything that will effectually remove them without injuring the skin in texture or color, would be considered a great achievement in medical science. Dr. B. C. PERRY, who has made diseases of the skin a specialty, has discovered an infallible remedy for the removal of moth, freckles and other discolorations from the face without injuring the skin in texture or color. NEW WORK BY THE AUTHOR OF "MY FARM OF EDGEWOOD."

SCRIBNER, No 124 Grand st., New-York, will have ready on

SATURDAY, Dec. 17,

WET DAYS AT EDGEWOOD.

1 vol., 12mo, on tinted paper. Price $2.
In half calf, $3 50.

This work gives a brief survey of the whole subject of agricultural and rural literature down to the present century, and abounds with pastoral gems from the poets, thrown in by way of interlude.

By genial and acute criticism, and appropriate extracts, the reader is brought face to face with the olden worthies of the agricultural world; smiles at their quaint peculiarities, and learns to appreciate the practical wisdom they display, though perchance in an uncouth garb.

The work is unique in our literature, and throws round a familiar subject a halo of scholarship and poetical feeling, with a singularly attractive result.

No country resident should be without this resource for his "wet days," that the writer found so effectual in dispelling the tedium of a rainy season.

It forms a very natural complementary volume to the "Farm of Edgewood," by the same author.

Copies sent by mail, post-paid, on receipt of price.

AT A MEETING OF THE CLASS OF 1862 OF COLUMBIA COLLEGE, held Dec. 13, 1864, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The hand of Death has lately snatched from us another friend and classmate, GERARDUS POST, overshadowing our hearts with sorrow, and warning us of the insecurity of life and the uncertainty of all human calculation;

Resolved, That since our own wisdom, in vain attempts to solve the mystery of this calamity which suddenly blasted all the high hopes and aspirations of the deceased, confounded all the fond anticipations of those who knew him, and overwhelmed with sorrow loving friends and relations, we rejoice that we have the blessed consolation that He who is the source of all wisdom doeth all things well; and we would fain solace ourselves with this comforting assurance.

Resolved, That in this sad dispensation we, in common with many friends with society at large, have sustained a heavy loss. A true friend; an honorable, high-minded man; a lawyer of uncommon promise and attainments; a Christian gentleman, cultivated by education and refined by nature—such was GERARDUS POST. As such we mourn for him now he is no more.

Resolved, That his career, though brief, has not, we trust, been in vain; and beside the impressive lesson which his untimely end conveys, we hope to be stimulated and bettered by the teachings of the bright record he has left, and which we shall ever cherish among our most sacred memories.

Resolved, That to his sorrow-stricken family we tender the sympathies of those who knew, and therefore loved, and now grieve for him.

CERTIFICATES.

OFFICE OF THE DELAWARE AND HUDSON CANAL CO.,
CARBONDALE, Penn., June 12, 1863.

We have had Mr. E. E. Hendrick's LUBRICATING OIL in use for somewhat more than a year upon our Coal, Passenger and Freight Cars (about 15,000 journals,) upon our Stationary Engines—more than twenty in number—and in our Machine Shop, and find it entirely satisfactory. Our engineers and machinists all concur in recommending it as superior to any lubricator we have heretofore used. It is fully equal to the best sperm.

I will also state that, in my opinion, it has no equal for use upon a sewing-machine, as I have witnessed its effects in my own house.

CHAS. P. WURTS,
Sup't D. & H. C. Co.

We have been using Hendrick's LUBRICATOR for nearly two years past, for cars and other machinery, and can recommend it as very superior.

We fully concur in the foregoing statements of C. P. Wurts, Esq., and John B. Smith, Esq., in regard to the superior quality of HENDRICK'S LUBRICATOR, having used it in our works for about two years.

BEST QUALITY
LOCUST MOUNTAIN WHITE ASH COAL
AT FIRST COST.
THE NEW-YORK
MUTUAL COAL COMPANY,
CAPITAL STOCK, $500,000.

Number of Shares	20,000
Par Value of Each Share	$25
Working Capital, in Cash	50,000

Each share entitles the holder to receive every year, for fifteen successive years, one ton of first quality Locust Mountain White Ash Coal, at cost; also a cash dividend every six months of the profits from the sale of all surplus coal.

Shareholders who do not desire to receive their coal may have their proportion sold by the company, for their especial benefit, the profits being paid over to them, independent of the regular cash dividends to which they are entitled.

Shareholders may order their coal in any of the usual sizes, viz: lump, broken, egg, stove, or nut coal, at the actual cost price, delivered at the dwellings, or at other places within the city of New-York or Brooklyn. Manufacturers' coal delivered in cargo.

Coal will be supplied to the shareholders immediately.

The Trustees have already secured one of the largest, most reliable and best equipped Collieries in Pennsylvania, including double breaker, engines, miners' houses, slope works, railroad tracks, cars, mules, and all the necessary machinery, implements, lumber, &c.; the whole in perfect working order, and NOW IN FULL OPERATION, having been in use but eight months.

The Colliery is located near Ashland, in Schuylkill Co., Pa., and the coal produced from it is of the very best quality of "Locust Mountain," and is the same as now recommended by all the coal dealers, and used by families in the cities of New-York and Brooklyn, and is mined under the most favorable circumstances, and at the least possible cost, as the coal is taken from the mine above the water level, and can be mined at all times at a profit. This coal is taken from the celebrated "Mammoth" vein, which, with the "Skidmore," "Primrose," and other celebrated veins, extend within the lines of the company, equal to three miles in length.

A branch of the Reading Railroad extends to the mines of this company, over which the coal is now daily brought to market. The very best and most reliable facilities have already been secured for the transportation of the company's coal to this market.

This company being the "pioneer" in the "coal at cost" enterprise in this State, and being exclusively a New-York company, for the accommodation of its citizens, and as the price of each share is within the reach of everybody, it is fully expected that our citizens will come forward and subscribe for the stock without delay.

Books for subscription are now open at the office of each Trustee in the City of New-York, where any additional information can be furnished.

CHICKERING & SONS

MANUFACTURERS OF GRAND, SQUARE, AND UPRIGHT PIANO-FORTES, No. 652 BROADWAY.—The superiority of these instruments has of late been amply demonstrated by the voluntary testimony of the foremost artists of the day, who claim for them excellencies of tone and workmanship hitherto unobtained by any other makers.

Mr. GOTTSCHALK'S constant use of the NEW SCALE CHICKERING GRAND PIANO-FORTES has severely tested their musical qualities, and resulted in establishing the justice of the very flattering estimation in which they are held.

Messrs. CHICKERING & SONS are Sole Agents for the celebrated Alexandre Organs for the United States.

TESTIMONIAL FROM THE MOST DISTINGUISHED ARTISTS TO STEINWAY & SONS.

The piano-fortes, grand, square and upright, manufactured by Messrs. Steinway & Sons, have established for themselves so world-wide a reputation that it is hardly possible for us to add anything to their just fame. Having thoroughly tested and tried these instruments personally for years, both in public and private, it becomes our pleasant duty to express our candid opinion regarding their unquestioned superiority over any other piano known to us.

Among the chief points of their uniform excellence are: Greatest possible depth, richness and volume of tone, combined with a rare brilliancy, clearness, and perfect evenness throughout the entire scale, and above all a surprising duration of sound, the pure and sympathetic quality of which never changes under the most delicate or powerful touch. This peculiarity is found exclusively in the Steinway Piano, and, together with the matchless precision, elasticity, and promptness of action, always characterizing these instruments, as well as their unequaled durability under the severest trials, is truly surprising, and claims at once the admiration of every artist. We, therefore, consider the "Steinway" pianos in all respects by far the best instruments made in this country or Europe, use them solely and exclusively ourselves, in public or private, and recommend them invariably to our friends and the public.

We have at different times expressed our opinion regarding the pianos of various makers, but freely and unhesitatingly pronounce

MESSRS. "STEINWAY & SONS" PIANOS, BOTH GRAND, AND SQUARE, INCOMPARABLY SUPERIOR TO THEM ALL.

ESTABLISHED IN 1829.

RAVEN & BACON,

PIANO MANUFACTURERS,
No. 135 Grand-st., near Broadway, New-York.

The musical profession having of late become quite prominent in connection with newspaper advertisements of four or five piano manufacturers in this city, each firm claiming superiority for their instruments from the indorsement of the same distinguished artists, we fear the innocent public, unacquainted with the tricks of the trade, may find themselves mystified as to where to select the best piano for their holiday gifts.

We would state that, as our pianos have been favorably known in this market for nearly forty years, it has not been necessary for us to obtain the opinion of the profession in regard to their quality, the instruments speaking for themselves. We are continually introducing improvements in our pianos, and they are up to the age in every particular. Parties desiring pianos will do well to examine our stock and prices before making their selections.

A CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

MIXSELL & CO.,

Manufacturers of over-strung grand and square pianos, would respectfully invite all who are about purchasing pianos to call and examine our stock. We feel confident we are making one of the best instruments in New-York —which is saying much, for New-York Pianos are the best in the world. But we are willing our work should bear its own testimony. Call and compare our pianos with other first-class makers and then compare prices, which will satisfy the most economical. CARPENTER'S PATENT HARMONEUM PIANO, the most complete piano made, can be seen and tested. We refer our customers to the musical profession generally, and especially to Messrs. GOLD MEDAL GRAND AND SQUARE PIANOS are now considered the best in Europe as well as this country, having received the first Prize Medal at the World's Exhibition in London, 1862.

The principal reason why the Steinway Pianos are superior to all others is, that the firm is composed of five practical piano-forte makers, (father and four sons,) who invent all their own improvements, and under whose personal supervision every part of the instrument is manufactured. Warerooms Nos. 71 and 73 East 14th-st., between Union-square and Irving-place, New-York.

THE WEBER PIANO-FORTE

Jerome Hopkins, Charles Fradel, Max Maretzek, Carl Anschutz, John Zundle, Maurice Strakosch, Giovani Sconcia, and every good musician in the United States. PUBLIC NOTICES.

THE COMING DRAFT.

IMPORTANT NOTICE
TO ALL WHO ARE ENROLLED AS
LIABLE TO DRAFT.

The New-York County Committee on Volunteering have reason to believe that a further call is likely soon to be made by the President for men.

Hitherto, great complaint has been made that the quotas demanded of the County of New-York have been excessive.

As all quotas are based upon the enrollment, it is evident that no relief can be expected except by a reduction of the enrollment to its proper standard.

Although appeals have hitherto been made to citizens to correct the enrollment, there has been little or no disposition shown by the public to discharge its duty in this particular.

It is evident that this duty must be performed by the public authorities, or it will not be performed at all.

By consent of the War Department and the advice of the Governor, the New-York County Committee on Volunteering has determined to undertake the herculean labor of correcting the Enrollment of the County.

No means will be spared to make this correction thorough and satisfactory both to the people and the Government.

Our only object is to correct the enrollment and place it at a proper standard, and every citizen owes it alike to himself and his neighbor to assist is this work.

In addition to other means which will be brought into requisition for the accomplishment of this object, a complete copy of the existing enrollment of each Ward or Election District will be printed and furnished to every enrolled citizen of the Ward or Election District.

This will prevent the excuse which so many who are exempt have made, that they did not know they were enrolled, and hence did not attend to having their names taken from the roll.

It will also afford the opportunity for every man enrolled to see whether or not his neighbor is enrolled, and enable him to secure that those liable and not enrolled shall be put down.

Every person enrolled is requested to aid in the gigantic labor which we have undertaken, by complying with the following conditions:

I. Whenever a name appears of any person who is not enrolled but liable, notice of the fact should be given to the Provost-Marshal of the District, by any person who may be cognizant of the fact, in order that the same may be recorded

II. Whenever a name appears of any person who has removed, notice of the fact should be given at the Provost-Marshal's office, that the name may be stricken from the roll of that District and recorded where it properly belongs.

III. Whenever a name appears which is known to be fictitious, or any one is aware that the person indicated is not a resident as described, notice should be given at the Provost-Marshal's office, that the name may be stricken from the roll.

IV. Whenever cause of exemption exists for any reason, notice should be given to the Provost-Marshal of the District by the exempt person himself, that the name may be stricken from the roll.

The following are the recognized causes of exemption:

1. Over 45 years of age.
2. Under 20 years of age.
3. Being an alien, and never having voted.
4. Having furnished a substitute in anticipation of the draft.
5. Having been drafted and furnished a substitute.
6. Having been drafted and paid commutation.
7. Having been drafted and received a certificate of permanent physical disability.
8. Being permanently physically disqualified.
9. Having served two years in the Army or Navy during the present War, and being honorably discharged.

In addition to this, so far as possible, every enrolled man will be waited upon personally by authorized agents, deputed to ascertain the liability of all enrolled men, to have those improperly enrolled taken off, and to add those not on, but who should be enrolled.

As this is an effort to correct and not to increase the enrollment, it is to the interest of every person to give correct and true answers to any and all questions which may be put to them, and any person declining to answer or giving false answers render themselves liable to arrest and imprisonment.

This is probably the last attempt which will be made to secure a correct Enrollment of the County of New-York. To be successful the coöperation of every resident of this city and county is absolutely required.

The Government officials have evinced a disposition to afford us every facility to attain the object in view. If, therefore, through the indisposition and apathy of the public, who are most concerned, this effort to correct the enrollment prove abortive, and further excessive quotas are demanded of us, because of the incorrectness of the enrollment, the people of this city and county will be themselves responsible, and they will have none but themselves to blame.

EVENINGS WITH SHAKESPEARE

AT THE
WINTER GARDEN,
EDWIN BOOTH AS HAMLET.

Mr. Stuart begs to announce that on this evening, and every evening until further notice, Mr. Edwin Booth will appear in his great role of Hamlet, a character in which he is universally acknowledged, in the language of the Daily Times, "to have no living equal." This play is the first of a series of representations to be produced under Mr. Booth's immediate direction, in which the effort, that has already found such cheering sympathy, will be continued to place each play upon the stage in a style combining splendor of production with strict historical correctness. Hamlet has been in active preparation for upward of three months, under the stage management of Mr. J. G. Hanly, and no expense or labor has been spared in the endeavor, by a more strictly pictorial arrangement of the ordinary stage resources, and by the fidelity, appropriateness and superior execution of the several means of scenic illusion to carry out the spirit of the play in the most minute details, and thus advance the drama as a branch of national literature and art.

The scenery, music, costumes, properties and machinery are entirely new, and to give a perfect completeness to the cast, engagements have been made with MRS. J. W. WALLACK, Jr., one of the most gifted actresses who ever graced the stage; MR. EDWIN VARREY, C. KEMBLE MASON, the eminent comedian, THOMAS PLACIDE, who appear nightly in conjunction with Mrs. F. S. Chanfrau, Chester, Messrs. G H. Andrews, C. Walcot, J. G. Hanley, E. Eberle, C. W. Chester, O. S. Fawcett, Duell, Burroughs, Burgess, &c. Doors open at 6¾. Commence at 7½, precisely.

The Weed-Opdyke Libel Suit.

SUPREME COURT—TRIAL TERM.

Before Judge Mason.

George Opdyke vs. Thurlow Weed.—The trial of this cause was resumed yesterday morning.

Lorin Jones, recalled by the defence, testified that up to the time of the destruction of the armory, $185,000 had been paid out by Mr. Opdyke on the establishment; the claims against it amounted to $15,000; making a total of $200,000; the assets footed up at $171,000, leaving a difference of $29,000; these figures were not exactly the same as those shown by him to the Mayor, but nearly so; had told the Mayor how the amount was made up; $46,000 was put down for the guns burnt; this was at $14 apiece; it cost a little more to make them at the factory, owing to the lack of some piece of machinery.

Cross-examination.—His observations were not very extensive; the carbines were valuable arms, (one of the guns was here handed to witness;) it was, he considered, worth $25; at the time the factory was fired, about fifty a day were made; the profit on each carbine was about $10 70; the profit per day would be over $506; it was a source of that amount of revenue to Farley and his associates each day; the machinery was capable of lasting for a long time without additional outlay; the profits would be $50,009 a year; machinery had largely increased in price; since the machinery of the factory was bought it had increased twenty per cent. The machinery which Farley and others put in a claim of $97,000 for, was worth twenty per cent. more under that estimate; there was material enough to make 500 guns more of second quality, which were not charged; they would be worth from $3 to $5 less than that of the first quality; the first outlay on the guns and machinery was not such a source of profit as that which resulted from their subsequent manufacture; the first 500 guns charged at $24 70 were in the factory at the time; believed the mode of estimating the value of the carbines was just and fair; the 6,000 carbines charged cost more than was claimed; in the claim on that account there was no charge made for interest; did not know of any; the guns could have been duplicated at Remington's; the actual cost of each carbine, Mr. Remington stated, would be $15; it would take six to nine months to duplicate them; the patentee's fee was $3 50 on each gun; it had been $6; Mr. Remington said he would make them, but he did not say at what price; Mr. Opdyke employed witness in the factory; he gave witness his directions; had a claim against Opdyke and McNeil, jointly, for his services; the morning of the day the armory was fired saw Mayor Opdyke; told him the police were in the building; Mr. Opdyke said: I have no authority, I can do nothing; witness parted with Mr. Opdyke, and when he went to the factory he found it in flames; if Mr. Opdyke had sent mounted policemen to the factory, they might have been there before it was fired; asked Capt. Cameron for a police force to go to the armory, but he replied he had none to spare, and that the men in the factory had better shut it up and leave it; in his conversation with Mr. Opdyke, he asked him how he intended to put forward his claims for damages; he replied he meant to estimate them by his books; witness was anxious to have the interests of others in the factory secured, and he believed the estimates made were fair; had been in conversation with Judge Pierrepont about the case; told him all he knew about it; did not say there was anything unusual in Mr. Opdyke's eyes at the time; he looked at the newspaper when witness spoke to him.

Reëxamination.—Was in a room with counsel and Mr. Weed; spoke of Mr. Opdyke's looking down, and of his eyes; did not know of the value of the material on hand for second-class guns; the charge of $30,000 in the claim covered the royalty on the guns, or the fee of the patentees; gave as one of the reasons to the Mayor for his estimate of the claim, that the men in the armory would get paid.

Q.—When was the royalty (or patentees' fees) on the guns payable? A.—When the guns were delivered.

Q.—For these unfinished guns, then, you did include the royalty in the claim amounting to $6,000? A.—Yes, sir.

The amount received from the Government appears among the assets on the other side. It was not deducted from the $185,000; it was put among the assets. The cost of making these guns for which the Government paid, was not deducted from the amounts advanced by Mr. Opdyke.

Charles McNeil, being sworn, was examined by Judge Pierrepont on behalf of the defendant, and testified as follows: I was a member of the last Legislature of 1864, and have been reëlected a member of the coming one from Queens County; I live there.

Q.—You had a relation with this factory of guns about which we have been speaking? A.—Yes, Sir; my interest, I think, commenced December, 1862.

Q.—Do you know of a suit in relation to it in the name of Mrs. McNiel against Mr. Opdyke? A.—Yes, Sir; my interest in the factory was two dollars for each gun; I advanced $6,250, $3,750 to the patentee and $2,500 on a chattel mortgage; Mr. Opdyke, or rather Mr. Farley through Mr. Opdyke, was the man interested; bought out the interest of Mr. Marston in the factory, and Mr. Farley got my wife to sign off, and had the chattel mortgage canceled; after the armory was destroyed by the rioters, I saw Mr. Opdyke and asked him about the claim on the city; he told me not to do anything about it, and Mr. Farley and Mr. Keene would arrange that and make it all right, and that I should leave the whole thing in their hands; there was to be an auction sale of the old material left after the fire, and I thought I might make something by going to it, but he told me he would rather have me keep away from it; he would rather I would have nothing to do with it; Mr. Farley made this arrangement with me about my having two dollars a gun; after this interview and after the money was obtained from the city, I saw Mr. Opdyke at his office; he had sent for me before that, and so I went; he said to me "I understand from Mr. Farley, that he has made a contract with you to give you two dollars a gun;" I said "yes;" he said "I will not stand that;" Mr. Farley told me of it, and I gave him a very strong reprimand for making any such remark; I told him the bargain had been made, and the mortgage had been canceled, and everything had been going on under that arrangement in good faith; I afterward saw Mr. Opdyke at his house, where I went with Mr. Amor J. Williamson.

Q.—Tell the jury what occurred there. A.—Before commencing our conversation on the subject of the claim, Mr. Opdyke said that he wanted it expressly understood, that whatever was said in that room between them should not be afterward used by Mr. Williamson as evidence, and he would not go on unless it was understood; I said I cared not how it was understood; we agreed to this, and then Mr. Opdyke said he would tell his own story to Mr. Williamson, and I should not interfere with him, and then I should tell my story, and he would not interfere with me; so then he went on, and told his story.

Q.—What did he say? A.—Oh, I could not tell it all; it was about an hour and a half, I should think, that it took him to get through with it, and I did not interrupt him; when he got through, I commenced, but I did not go far before he interfered with me; I undertook to tell my story; how that the bargain was made between Mr. Farley and myself to allow my wife two dollars a gun; that was the bargain I told Mr. Williamson was made with Mr. Opdyke; Mr. Opdyke said "No," I never made any such bargain; I asked him if I did not go down to his office, and if he did not say to me that Mr. Farley had told him that he had made that bargain with me, and he had given him a reprimand for doing it; he said, "Oh, no, Mr. Farley did not tell me so;" I then asked him what he reprimanded him for; he said "I did not reprimand him, I reprimanded you;" "What have I done," said I; "Why," said he, "you got Farley to make this bargain with you;" I took my hat and told him what I thought of him, and left the house.

Q.—What did you tell him you thought of him? A.—I told him he was a damned rascal and a damned liar, and I never wanted anything to say to him again, and did not want to stay in his house: I took my hat and overcoat and left the house; Mr. Williamson came out as I was leaving, and told me to come back, and said Mr. Opdyke had said he would settle it; I said I would not go back into his house; that night after I got home Mr. Williamson came to my house and said Opdyke would settle with me and pay me the money, or words to that effect.

Q.—Did you meet Mr. Opdyke at Congress Hall after that, last winter? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—What was said there between you?

Objected to on the ground that Mr. McNeil was not a partner of Mr. Opdyke as stated in the alleged libel. Objection sustained.

Mr. Pierrepont said it was proposed to prove that Mr. McNeil said to Mr. Opdyke, in conservation with this gun business, that he was a swindler.

Excluded until it was proved that McNeil was a partner of Opdyke.

Witness stated that the whole interest belonged to his wife, and that he only acted for her.

Mr. Pierrepont offered to put in evidence the complaint.

The Court—So far as it is necessary to use the complaint to give point to the answer, it is admissible to put in the complaint.

Mr. Emmott—Read the answer.

Mr. Pierrepont—I will first read the complaint, to which it is an answer; that is the proper way to lay it before the jury, so as not to begin at the wrong end.

Mr. Emmott—I object.

The Court—I do not desire to listen to the whole of the complaint.

Mr. Pierrepont—Is there any objection to our stating that part of the complaint—Mrs. W. O'Neil against Opdyke, claiming $1,700, her share of the profits and interests in the gun manufactory?

The Court—There is no objection to that. I allow the complaint to go in, not as affirmative evidence, but to be used so far in connection with the answer as the answer may be evidence of the admission.

Mr. Emmott—Your Honor will note our exception.

The Court—Certainly.

The complaint was then read to the point where the plaintiff claimed to be the sole owner of the contract.

The Court—I will charge the Jury that the man is not the defendant except I find that he was a partner, and there is nothing in the evidence to go to the Jury upon that question of fact. It seems to me that if this man is a partner, or if there is any evidence of the claim that he is, I do not see that we can exclude that. I shall allow the evidence on this point to go to the Jury.

Examination resumed—Q—State what you said to Opdyke in the Congress Hall, in Albany, in connection with this matter? A—I cannot tell all; it is quite a long story; I saw Opdyke in the morning, and I asked him if he was not ashamed to show himself where I was, or to put up at the same house, after using me, or my wife rather as he did, in cheating us out of the money.

Q—What did he reply to that? A—He said you have sued me, and now get the money where you can; he left me and went to breakfast; I also went to breakfast, and we sat opposite to each other; after breakfast, he walked out, and I walked out after him and boned him again; among other things I told him he was a scoundrel and a rascal, and I wouldn't trust him for cents; I further stated to him that after all I had done for him—Opdyke at once asked me what I done; and I said in getting Andrews to give you $10,000 towards your election; and after all that, and all put together, you turn a deaf ear and will pay no body a cent.

Q.—What did you mean by that, Gillingham, $10,000?

Mr. Field—Oh no; we don't want that. [Laughter.]

Q.—[Repeated]—What do you mean by that?

Mr. Field again interposed amid much laughter, but the question was admitted by the court.

A.—The money he got from Mr. Andrews; I now recollect that he said to me, "I didn't get that money from Andrews; I got it from another power;" I didn't know what that higher power was, but that was his reply to me.

Q.—Did he state what that power was? A.—No.

Q.—You directed Mr. McNeil to bring this suit? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And this suit of Mr. McNeil's against Opdyke when this conversation took place? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Now tell the jury all about this Andrews affair, all that occurred between you?

Witness—I should like you to put the question to me.

Q—Well, subsequent to that conversation what was done with regard to the assignment claim? A.—There was nothing done at that time, but subsequently there was an assignment to Bernardus Hendrickson.

Q.—Do you know when this was settled? A.—I think two weeks ago, last month.

Q.—Do you know how much was paid Opdyke? A.—In the neighborhood of $11,000.

By the Court—You mean the assignment of the claim of your wife? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Of this $110,000 how much was for money and how much was for profit? A.—I don't know anything about that settlement; Hendrickson told me that he received $11,000; I knew nothing about it, for it was not settled with my consent, and I had nothing to do with it.

Q.—You never did consent? A.—No. sir.

Q.—What was the amount advanced? A.—$3,750 and then $2,500.

Q.—And the claim was $17,000? A.—Yes.

Q.—That was the account of so many guns? A.—The claim was $19,000, but there was a balance of $2,000 for which I gave my note to Marston, and which Opdyke cashed; that was to be deducted from the $19,000.

Q.—That left you a claim of $17,000? A.—Yes: and some odd hundreds.

Q.—On what basis did that claim rest? A.—On the agreement of $2 a gun.

Mr. Field objected, as the claim appeared in the complaint.

The Court—The only question is whether it is material to meet the allegations in the libel.

Mr. Evarts—It is material to show that the claim of $17,000 was made out of the moneys advanced and the interest. Mrs. McNeil was entitled to draw out of the concern, and for her share of the profits on the manufacture of 7,000 carbines. And it is material on the idea that by the money he had received from the city, Opdyke had in his pocket profits on 7,000 carbines, and that if he had paid these $19,000, he would have paid Mrs. McNeil's interest on her share of the proceeds on that basis, just as he got it from the city.

The Court—I think it is competent to meet this part of the libel; if the city, having paid handsomely and promptly, and he refused to divide the profits fairly, Mrs. McNeil commences the suit against him.

Mr. Field—Then they want to show that "Oily Gammon did not divide the profits fairly.

Mr. Evarts—Who do you refer to as Oily Gammon?

Mr. Field—Who did you refer to?

Mr. Evarts—I did not refer to any Oily Gammon.

Mr. Field—Your client did, then.

Examination resumed.—Q.—How much was costs, and how much was profits? A.—I was to have, after deducting 25 cents, $2 a gun. These 25 cents were to go to Opdyke, toward paying him for the money he advanced over and above what my wife advanced: then Farley was to have 60 cents, and Jones 50 cents a gun, by my allowing Mr. Opdyke 25 cents, and 5 cents toward Farley, that gave Farley 30 cents and I 30 cents, and that left me $1 70 a gun. This money was not due to me until after the guns were made and sold.

Q.—You knew Mr. Andrews well? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Now we come to the $10,000 matter between Andrews and Opdyke, and you go on and tell us all about that? A.—Well, Sir, I met Mr. Andrews, I think it was at the corner of Twenty-Third-street and Broadway, at an oyster-house there, and Andrews said to me—

Mr. Field—I object. Was Mr. Opdyke present? A.—No.

The Court—Go to the question with Opdyke.

Witness—Well, I went to Mr. Opdyke and told him that Andrews would give him $10,000, that he could collect, or cause to be collected $10,000 out of the Custom-house, if he (Opdyke) would go for Andrews for Surveyor of the Port of New-York.

Q.—What was said about Stanton at this time? A.—Nothing at this time; but he agreed to set Stanton aside and to go for Andrews.

Q.—How came you to say this to Opdyke?

Mr. Field objected, except he told Opdyke.

Witness—I told Opdyke all.

Q.—Well, go on with Andrews.

Witness—Hadn't I better finish up with Opdyke? [Laughter.] The fact is, I don't want you to put words in my mouth; Opdyke said to me, "Won't this Andrews cheat me?" I said that "I didn't know, I didn't think he would; however, if you want anybody else to help you through it, pick out your man and we will go to Andrews together," and he picked out Amos J. Williamson; I then went to Mr. Williamson.

Q.—I want you to come to the time when you first saw Andrews, and tell us what passed between him and you? A.—Andrews told me that if I would intercede with Opdyke to go for him as Surveyor of the Port, he would collect or cause to be collected out of the Custom House, $10,000 towards his next election for Mayor, as Opdyke expected to run the next Fall.

Q.—Where did this conversation take place? A.—Twenty-third-street and Broadway, at the oyster-house I spoke of.

Q.—Where did you next meet Andrews? A.—The next time I met Williamson and Andrews together, and in the conversation that ensued between us, Andrews again made the offer that he would collect or cause to be collected out of the Custom House, for Mr. Opdyke, $10,000.

Mr. Field.—Was Opdyke present? A.—No.

Mr. Field.—Then I object.

The Court.—It is admissable, inasmuch as the witness bore this conversation to Mr. Opdyke; he brought a message from Opdyke to Andrews, or Williamson did, and he returned to Opdyke and communicated to him the result.

Mr. Field.—I cannot help the witness saying anything.

Mr. Evarts, (warmly.)—I appeal to the Court if this is a proper way to conduct a case?

The Court.—It is not necessary to address these remarks to a witness. All that took place between the witness and Andrews in the first instance, so far as the witness bore it from Andrews to Opdyke, that is admissable. Then, after that, Opdyke directs this man to continue the negotiations on this very subject, and whatever transpired at that interview is undoubtedly admissable, he having communicated to Opdyke.

Examination resumed—Q.—What did Opdyke say to you about picking out another man? For what purpose was he to pick another man? A.—To go with me to see Andrews, and to make an agreement for him; he was at that time about setting Stanton aside, and going for him (Andrews) for $10,000; Opdyke said that.

Q.—What was all that was said about the other man being selected to see Andrews, that you two should see Andrews, as he was afraid Andrews might cheat him? Did he say about that being satisfactory, or otherwise? A.—When I told Opdyke this story about Andrews, Opdyke asked me if he would cheat him; I answered and said I didn't think he would; that I didn't know, but for him to get somebody else, if he pleased, to go with me; I told him to pick his man, and he picked Amor J. Williamson as the man to go with me.

The Court—State what Opdyke said about Williamson to you. Give as near as you can his words. A.—He said he would pick Amor J. Williamson.

A.—How do you know he chose him? A.—He called him by name; I then went and saw Williamson and told him what Andrews had said, and what Opdyke had said.

Mr. Field—I object to this. Witness does not say what Opdyke said about Williamson.

The Court—For what purpose was he chosen? A.—To go with me to Andrews; to go and make this bargain with Andrews, and I; I told Williamson what Andrews had done and what Opdyke had done, and that Opdyke wanted us to go together to conclude the bargain; we saw Andrews at the same place, and I told him that Mr. Williamson had been chosen by Mr. Opdyke to come there to see what could be done with regard to the bargain that was to be made between him and Opdyke to get him the situation of Surveyor of the Port; Andrews then repeated what he said before, that he would give Opdyke $10,000, which he could collect or cause to be collected out of the Custom-house for his election, if he (Opdyke) would lend Andrews his influence in getting him the appointment of Surveyor of the Port.

Q.—After that you saw Opdyke? A.—Yes; Opdyke after that told me to tell Williamson that he wanted to see him; he told me whenever this was done to tell Williamson he wanted to see him.

By the Court—What response was made by you or Williamson to the offer of Andrews? A.—Williamson was to go to Opdyke and tell him what Andrews had agreed to do.

Q.—Who told you to communicate with Opdyke? A.—Opdyke told me to ask Williamson to come and report to him about the bargain that was concluded with Andrews.

Q.—Do you know whether Williamson did report to Opdyke? A.—Yes Sir for afterward when I saw Opdyke I asked him if he had seen Williamson, and he said he had, I then asked him if the matter had been satisfactorily arranged and he said it was, and in a few days after this Andrews had his appointment. He came back to New-York and I was the first man he came to see and he appeared grateful to me for bringing the thing round as I had.

Mr. Field objected to the evidence.

The Court, to Witness: Go on and tell it right straight through now.

Witness: When Andrews saw me he thanked me for my share of the business, he said that Opdyke had got him the position, and that he would carry out to the letter what he had agreed to, that he would help me to anything; that if I wanted to have any man appointed to name three or four and he would have them appointed to situations; he then went with me to Williamson to thank him, but we did not find him in his office I think.

Q.—What did Andrews say to you when he first applied to you for your interest in the matter? A.—He asked me to get Opdyke to get him the appointment, and I said to him, what object will you make it to Opdyke, if he gets you the appointment; you know that he has a man named Stanton, and he is trying to get the appointment for him; he didn't say how much then; I don't recollect whether it was he or I that first mentioned the $10,000; that is all was about it.

Q.—Who was this Stanton? A.—I don't know.

Q. Was he in the Custom-house? A.—I don't know anything about him.

Q.—Was his name H. B. Stanton? A.—I don't know what his name was.

Q.—How did you know that Opdyke had a man of that name? A.—Opdyke told me; he said he had been trying to get Stanton appointed; but he thought he hadn't much chance; at any rate he said that he would drop him, and I think he said, "I will go for Andrews if this thing is arranged to my satisfaction."

Q.—Did you go to Washington after that? A.—Yes.

Q.—Did you meet Opdyke or Andrews there? A.—It was a long time after the election; Andrews never gave me any appointment; he forgot all about that; I brought my men to him many times; but he never gave me the appointments; next I met him in the hall of Willard's Hotel, and I commenced a conversation with him; I said: "You are not satisfied with cheating me, but you have cheated Opdyke too; you agreed to give him $10,000, but he says you gave him only $7,000;" and he said Opdyke got the whole $10,000; at that moment somebody tapped me on my shoulder, and I looked round, and saw Opdyke; he said: "Come, Charley, and take dinner with me;" I said: "No, Sir; I don't want to dine with you; I want to have some more conversation with this man."

Q.—Did Opdyke tell you that he got but $7,000? A.—Yes; he told me that in New-York; I asked him after his election if Andrews had given him the $10,000, and he said, "No, he only gave $7,000.

Cross-examined by Mr. Field.—Q.—You entertained the most friendly feelings toward Mr. Opdyke? A.—Yes, Sir, the most friendly in the world.

Q.—And you do still? A.—No, Sir; I should think not.

Q.—Then you have changed your feelings toward him? A.—I should say so.

Q.—When did your feelings begin to change? A.—After the burning of the gun factory.

Q.—Previous to that you were on the best of terms? A.—I should think so.

Q.—And you would not dine with him in Washington? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—You say that this property was your wife's property? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Where did she get it? A.—She got $5,000 from Hendrickson for this very purpose—for the gun business.

Q.—Did you borrow it? A.—I hired it.

Q.—Had your wife any private property of her own? A.—Yes; she had property she got from her father's estate; I think from $1,200 to $2,000; and from her brother's estate also.

Q.—When were you married? A.—In 1831.

Q.—When did she get the money from the estate? A.—In 1852 or '3.

Q.—What became of it? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Did you spend it? A.—I might; I can't say that I did not.

Q.—What became of it? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Was it all gone? A.—I don't say that.

Q.—Have you any idea whether it was gone in 1860? A.—I cannot tell, Sir.

Q.—What came from her brother's estate? A.—Some $400.

Q.—What became of that? A.—I cannot tell.

Q—Did any of it remain in 1860? A.—I should think it did.

Q.—In what shape? A.—With herself.

Q.—Do you think she retained some of the money? A.—I do mean to say that I think from 1856 to 1860 she retained some $400.

Q.—In what form did she retain it? A.—I don't know.

Q.—You don't know what it was? A.—No.

Q.—In 1861 she borrowed this money from Hendrickson? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is he a relative of hers or of yours? A.—No.

Q.—Who asked Hendrickson for this money? A.—I asked once.

Q.—You were much in debt then? A.—Yes, and still am.

Q.—There were a great many judgments against you? A.—Yes, and there still is.

Q.—Can you state for how much you were a bankrupt? No, Sir.

Q.—Can you state within $20,000? A.—Well, I think it was within the neighborhood of $20,000 or $25,000, and I have been so for the last fourteen years.

Q.—When this money was borrowed from Hendrickson, did your wife take part in the borrowing? A.—Yes, Sir.

Q.—Where did it take place? A.—In the first place, I got that contract for Hendrickson to make the guns; it was his money; I got the contract three years ago this month; I borrowed the money of Hendrickson, and after I came to New-York my wife agreed to buy that contract from Hendrickson.

Q.—Did your wife see Opdyke about it? A.—I don't know.

Q.—How did she agree with Opdyke? A.—I agreed for her.

Q.—Had she up to that time any property? A.—She had a silver set to the amount of $1,500; she had money, but how much I don't know; and she had furniture—how much I don't know.

Q.—Was the silver or the furniture sold for this purpose? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Did any of his money go toward it? A.—No.

Q.—Your wife's note was given? A.—Yes.

Q.—Was not this to guard against your creditors? A.—Oh, no: it was a matter of honor.

Q.—And you got your wife to swear to the complaint that it was separate property. A.—I did not; a lawyer may.

Q.—Did you employ the lawyer? A.—Yes; I first spoke to him.

Q.—You are a member of the Legislature at Albany? A.—Yes.

Q.—And you got acquainted there with Mr. Weed? A.—I have known Mr. Weed, I think, for ten years; not personally, but I have known him for that time.

Q.—When you were a member of the Legislature were you not very intimate with him? A.—No.

Q.—Were there any railroads put through during your term? A.—There were some bills presented, but none of them passed.

Q.—Did you seem him during your term in the Legislature? A.—Last Winter I saw him in.

Q.—You say he had nothing to do with the settlement of your suit? A—Yes.

Q.—And you had not? A.—No, Sir.

Q.—Is that paper signed by you? A.—Yes.

Mr. Field offered in evidence a power of attorney, signed by Charles McNiel, and dated 23d November, 1864.

Q.—Is that the date the suit was settled? A.—I don't know.

Q.—Was that suit settled precisely on the terms Opdyke offered to you before the suit was commenced? A.—No, Sir-ee. [Laughter.] Opdyke never offered to settle with me; if he did, it was through a third party.

Paper handed to witness.

Q.—Is that signed by Bernardus Hendrickson? A.—Yes.

Q.—Is that paper [paper shown to witness] signed by your wife, Elizabeth McNeil? A.—Yes, Sir.

Mr. Field—I offer this in evidence, as the assignment of the claim of Elizabeth McNiel and Bernardus Hendrickson; also, an order substituting Hendrickson in her place. [Objected to and sustained; papers excluded for the present.] When was the first agreement made between you and Opdyke with reference to the manufacture of the carbines? A.—I don't recollect the time, but it was before we went to Washington to get the contract. Farley went with me, the agreement was made finally on the day it was made, and the writing will show what day that day was, [laughter;] Opdyke's name did not appear on the contract; when the agreement was made Opdyke, Farley, Mrs. McNeil and myself were present; I cannot now recollect what was particularly said by any of the parties; this was in Farley's office in Wall-street; cannot recollect a word of what was said, but to collect the profit he was to receive on the guns manufactured the contract was not obtained at Washington in the form as expected, and Farley refused to have anything to do with it; after we returned saw Mr. Opdyke in his own house; told him that the contract could not be got as we expected; that we could not get twenty thousand contract, but we could get ten thousand gun contract by paying $7,500; told him all I had done, and asked him if he was willing to go in on halves; we were to get the guns manufactured by Marston; the original contract with Marston was $18 a gun.

Q.—Were you at the fire when the factory was burned? A.—Was there before it began; went to the Mayor's office and told him that there had been a mob there, and wanted to know what he was going to do; he appeared very much frightened; knew that a claim had been made for the fire; don't think he told the Mayor that the claim was too small, nor anybody else.

Q. You saw the Mayor in his office? A, Yes.

Q. State what occurred between you. A. Told me to meet him at his house that night and Farlee would be there when every thing could be settled; supposed he asked for a settlement and for the money. Declined to meet him and Farlee alone, but said he would pick out a man to go with him, a personal friend of Opdyke, Mr. Williamson. There was nothing very peculiar about the Mayor the day of the fire, but he looked a little queer always.

Mr. Field commented on the opening of Counsel and said it was the most extraordinary speech he had ever heard. He would call counsel and client to account if everything asserted was not proved.

The Court then adjourned to 10 o'clock this day.

A FAIR OF THE CHURCH OF THE RESTORATION.—A ladies' fair in behalf of the Church of the Restoration, (Protestant Episcopal,) is now in progress at No. 932 Broadway, corner of Twenty-second-street. As a special attraction, the Seventh Regiment Band has been engaged to furnish music every evening, and a promenade concert is the inevitable consequence. The object is so praiseworthy, that extrordinary inducements of the kind ought not to be necessary to secure a full attendance and generous receipts.

WEED SEWING MACHINE.—The new invention, known as the "Weed Lock-stitch Sewing Machine," is rapidly growing in public favor. Since its introduction, no other machine has increased in popularity more steadily. A very wealthy corporation have it in charge, and with their numerous and well-established agencies in every quarter, at home and abroad, it would seem that this machine will soon have, and deservedly so, a world-wide reputation. Wherever it has been introduced, it has never failed, in a single instance, so far as we know, to give entire satisfaction.

Those in want of a good family sewing machine that has no sham about it, should not fail to examine this wonder-working invention, alike startling in its simplicity and ingenuity, and a real household treasure. Reader, if you can afford for your family any substantial earthly luxury, any life-lengthening panacea; if you desire a real "peace commissioner" in the parlor, or a gold mine "constantly on hand," or a mint ready for "home use," which will only require the touch of gentle hands to produce a currency the range of which is universal, go and buy a Weed Sewing Machine, No. 506 Broadway, New-York.—Independent, Dec. 8.

THE RATHBONE PETROLEUM COMPANY
OF WEST VIRGINIA.
OFFICE, NO. 38 PINE-STREET, NEW-YORK.
$150,000 SHARES OF $3 EACH.

The company have secured four of the most valuable oil-producing parcels on and adjoining the celebrated Rathbone Tract on Burning Spring Run and Little Kanawha River, in Wirt County, West Virginia, selected several years since, in different locations, with great care by competent persons, on which five wells are already sunk, and ready for operations, with engines and other needful apparatus on the ground.

One of the wells is about 20 feet distant from the celebrated Llewellyn Well, which has yielded as high as 1,400 bbls. per day; and at least fifteen additional wells may be advantageously sunk on these parcels.

The oil from the region of these wells commands a higher price than any Petroleum from any other region, being of a nearly uniform specific gravity of about 42 degrees.

In addition to these parcels, the company have also secured a tract of 110 acres of oil-bearing territory on the celebrated French Creek.

The company confidently expect to be able, early in the ensuing year, to commence and to continue thereafter regularly, the payment of large dividends on the par value of the stock from the products of the wells already sunk; and it is believed that no oil territory of equal value and promise, in any location, can be had at so low a rate as that now offered by the company.

The attention and scrutiny of parties desiring good and safe investments in this description of stocks are particularly invited to this opportunity.

A limited number of shares are now offered at the price of $1 per share, being one-third of its par value.

Application may be made at the office of

HOSTETTER'S
CELEBRATED
STOMACH
BITTERS.

COMMON SENSE TEACHES US

That if our bodies are naturally feeble, or debilitated by sickness, the lack of strength and vitality must be supplied, if possible, by such wholesome means of invigoration as Nature and Science have placed at our disposal.

EXPERIENCE HAS TAUGHT THOUSANDS

That among all the remedies for physical and constitutional prostration, to which public attention has been directed through the press, there is none so safe, so agreeable, so certain in its beneficial results, as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

DURING TWELVE SUCCESSIVE YEARS

This great Household Tonic and Alterative has maintained its ascendancy over every other medicated stimulant, and it is now the standard preparation of its class, not only in all parts of the United States, but also in South America, Central America, Mexico, the West Indies, and Australia.

THE HORRORS OF DYSPEPSIA,

And the dismal train of disorders to which it leads, are averted by the use of HOSTETTER'S BITTERS as a preventive, or cured with astonishing celerity by its direct and genial operation upon the stomach, the liver, and the nervous system.

THE SHAKING MARTYRS

Of FEVER AND AGUE, instead of being dosed for months with quinine to the ruin of the general health, are promptly set upon their feet again, without danger of a relapse, by this prompt remedy for every kind of Intermittent. Taken as a safeguard against miasma, it renders an attack of CHILLS AND FEVER absolutely impossible.

IF YOU ARE BILIOUS

There is nothing that touches the LIVER, the seat of the malady, so quickly, and restores it so certainly to a perfectly healthy and regular condition, as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. If of a "bilious habit," the tendency of your system to that form of disease may be held in check for a lifetime by the occasional use of this harmless vegetable antidote.

AFTER AN ATTACK OF SICKNESS,

When the animal powers are exhausted, the pulse weak, the mind depressed, and all the powers of vitality at a low ebb, there is no restorative comparable with the BITTERS. They renovate every organ, gently stimulate the circulation, improve the quality of the blood, clear the clouded brain, and impart to the trembling nerves stability and firmness.

TROUBLE WITH THE BOWELS

Lays the foundation of innumerable complaints. Why pine and suffer under the pangs of constipation, and risk the deadly consequences to which it leads, when an occasional half wine-glass full of this pleasant vegetable alterative will insure that perfect and painless regularity which is the first condition of health, and the best security against all epidemic ailments.

THE TRAVELER IS WITHOUT DEFENCE

Against the noxious effects of the varieties of impure water, and the pernicious atmospheric changes which he must encounter on his journeys, unless armed in advance with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. No other tonic will create and keep up a condition of the system that will render it proof against the unseen poisons of the two elements—air and water.

WHEN THE APPETITE FAILS,

The main-stay of health is gone. To restore it when declining, or to prevent its loss, this stomachic is infallible. The word infallible is often rashly employed, but it is used here as the only expression which fairly describes the uniform effect of the preparation as an appetizer.

WITHOUT A GOOD DIGESTION,

Relish for food, however, is scarcely a blessing. HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS would, therefore, be an imperfect tonic, if they only stimulated the palate. But they have no such drawback. They not only create a healthy desire for sustenance, but endow the stomach with the capacity to dissolve and turn to nutriment the food the palate craves. Thus "good digestion waits on appetite and health on both."

THE BODY ACTS UPON THE MIND,

And hence, when the physical system is broken down by disease, the intellect is obscured; but gradually, as the frame recuperates under the operation of this rare restorative, the cloud is lifted from the brain, and the natural vivacity and activity of thought return. Mens sana corpore sano—a sound mind in a sound body—is the chief good, says Juvenal. To enjoy this double blessing, the stomach must be kept in perfect working order.

ON THE TEMPERATURE OF THE BLOOD,

And its equable circulation, an exemption from the diseases that prevail in Winter, materially depends. If you would escape coughs, colds, diphtheria, influenza, lung fever, intermittents, asthma, &c., &c., invigorate the stomach,—which in its turn will invigorate the vital current and regulate its flow—with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS.

IN OVERHEATED FACTORIES, &c.,

The pressure upon the animal powers is very great. Those who are compelled to breathe the unnatural atmosphere of such places, should sustain the strength and elasticity of the system with the BITTERS. One of the grand properties of the article is that it braces and hardens the nervous system, and renders the lungs and skin capable of resisting the effects of bad air, and of rapid changes from heat to cold.

UNIVERSAL ADULTERATION

Has rendered all imported liquors not only unreliable but dangerous. Distinguished from every other stimulant obtainable in this country, by its absolute purity, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, the rectified essence of sound native rye, medicated with the juices of the most valuable tonic, alterative and disenfectant herbs, stands alone and unapproached as a safe and irreproachable restorative and preventive.

IT IS A REPRESENTATIVE MEDICINE,

Really possessing all the properties claimed for three distinct species of remedies, viz: tonics, alteratives and laxatives, and daily proving by its operation in cases requiring the exhibition of these three important agents, that it combines them all in the greatest purity and the best possible proportions.

IT IS A TESTED PREPARATION,

Having been used more extensively and for a greater number of years than any other American tonic extant. Its record is part and parcel of the medical history of the country, and while scores of medicinal ephemera have lived and died and been forgotten since it was introduced, it has to-day a larger sale and a wider popularity than ever.

FRAUDS UPON SOCIETY

Have so often been perpetrated by means of false certificates, that the proprietors of the Bitters have always confined themselves principally to the testimony of well-known public characters, and have invited readers to verify the published statements by direct reference to the parties whose names were appended to them. Any impeachment of the printed evidence is defied. It constitutes a volume of proof, it is believed, such as was never before offered in support of the claims of any other advertised medicine.

AMONG OFFICERS OF THE U. S. ARMY

And army surgeons, HOSTETTER'S BITTERS are in constant use, and the strength-sustaining virtues and restorative properties of the medicine have been tested with eminent success on the battle-field, in the flying and camp hospitals and in the Government lazarettoes at Washington and elsewhere. By the navy, also, it has been warmly indorsed and largely patronized.

ON BOARD OUR OCEAN STEAMERS,

Packet-ships and merchantmen, it is regularly shipped as the best known preventive of, and remedy for, SEA SICKNESS, and as an unexceptionable stimulant in all cases where such an agent is required. Sea captains, when bound to hot and malarious climates, regard it as the most valuable portion of their medical stores. They are of opinion that, fortified by such an antidote, the sailor has little to fear from coast fever or even "Yellow Jack."

IN CALIFORNIA AND AUSTRALIA

It is currently known as the "Miner's Medicine," and its popularity in all the gold regions of the Western Hemisphere clearly shows that it is considered indispensable to the preservation of health amid the privations, hardships and exposures inseparable from the life of the gold hunter and pioneer.

THE RECORD OF IMPORTANT CURES,

Kept at the manufactory of Hostetter's Bitters, Pittsburgh, shows that the preparation has been administered with entire success in an immense number of cases of dyspepsia, liver complaint, constipation, fever and ague, bilious remittent fever, general debility, nervous complaints, feminine difficulties, paralysis, sick headache, and the various forms and consequences of indigestion. So much for its efficacy as a remedy. As a protective against the causes of disease it may be said, without qualification, to be the best before the world.

Whoever uses HOSTETTER'S BITTERS preventively, may discount the future at the Bank of Health without any fear of the bills being protested.
